FLIM FLAM GAME OF TWO STRANGERS

They Tried to Work a Change Racket on Mrs. A. V. Thompson But

SHE WASN'T TO BE FOOLED

They Were Successful at the Store of William Nath and He Is

NOW OUT JUST NINE DOLLARS

Two very slick flim flam change artists were in the city Saturday night and strange to say they occupied their attentions to trying to work their game on Mrs. A. V. Thompson, mother of Chief of Police Thompson, and William Nath, father-in-law of Mayor Davidson.

Mrs. Thompson did not get taken in on the strangers' little game, but Mr. Nath is just shy $9, as he gave a ten-dollar bill in exchange for a one-dollar bill. He made complaint to the authorities, but the strangers have not been located.

Late Saturday night a well dressed man entered the grocery store of Mrs. A. V. Thompson, corner of Fourth and Washington street. Mrs. Thompson was alone in the store as the stranger undoubtedly intended she should be. He looked about the store for a short time and then asked if she kept tobies. Receiving an answer in the affirmative he asked for a dime's worth. When he had received his tobies he tendered a $20 bill in payment and Mrs. Thompson remarked that it was rather late to change a bill of that size and she didn't believe she could do it, as she didn't have the small change necessary to get the $4.90. He insisted that he needed the change very badly.

Just at this juncture another man entered the store room and overheard the conversation he spoke up and said he would go and get the $5 bill changed. Mrs. Thompson told him all right, for him to get $5 worth of change and she would give him a $5 bill when he returned.

He returned in a short time and received a bill for the change and then Mrs. Thompson changed the $20 bill, giving the man a $10 bill and $9.90 in change. While she had been receiving the $5 bill the party who had purchased the tobies had been fumbling around in his pockets and announced that he had just found a dime, and if she had no objection he would return the change and get a $10 bill. He then commenced to talk about a trivial matter and when Mrs. Thompson returned with the $10 bill he took it out of her hand, and without giving her the change stated that he would give her the two tens for his $20, which would have left him just $9.90 and the tobies ahead.

Mrs. Thompson was not to be caught, and reaching out took the $10 bill, then ordered the fellows from the store.

The parties worked the same kind of a game successfully on William Nath and he came out behind just $9.

An amusing incident connected with the affair is the fact that about half an hour after the strangers had appeared at the store of Mrs. Thompson her son, Chief of Police Thompson, walked in and told her they were in town. His mother informed him if he had come a little sooner he might have had the pleasure of meeting them both, as they had just left.

WAS LOCKED IN.

She Beckoned to a Stranger, And He Thought She Was Flirting With Him.

There was fun at the Kinsey Plumbing Co.'s office on Sixth street yesterday morning. The latch on the inside of the door has been broken off and the door cannot be opened from the inside, except by pulling on the chain which fastens the bolt on the upper part of the door. Strangers are of course not acquainted with the modulus operandi of this movement, and when they get inside, there they are. Of course they can easily effect an entrance, if the door be not locked, as the latch is all right from the outside. A lady patron walked into the office yesterday, during the absence of the proprietors, found they were absent, waited until she was tired and then essayed to go home, but was foiled in the attempt. She possesses Job-like patience; but patience finally ceased to be a virtue, and, rendered desperate, she beckoned frantically to a gentleman who was passing by. He is a newspaper man, and naturally very modest, and for the moment he was horrified at this, to him, open and reckless attempt at flirtation. But the lady's frantic attempts at last caused him to come to her rescue. She was profuse in her thanks, explained the situation to him, and he meandered uptown, happy in the knowledge of the fact that the fair female had no evil intentions respecting himself.

The second laughable incident occurred at an earlier hour in the morning, when two bright young school girls found themselves locked in. A gentleman patron stepped in, walked past the girls to the desk, when the elder girl said: "Mr., are you Mr. Kinsey?" She was answered in the negative, and then asked him if he would kindly open the door for them. He endeavored to do so, but met with failure. The young ladies were very anxious, as they said they would be late for school. The gentleman then made a tour of investigation, found that he could unlock the rear door, received the warm thanks of the anxious and blushing maidens, and sent them on their way rejoicing, they being compelled to make their exit over barrels and boxes and through the side entrance to the adjoining residence. Only this and nothing more.

THE POTTERS

Are Holding a Business Session Today at Hotel Henry, Pittsburg.

The Manufacturing Potters association is in session today at Hotel Henry, Pittsburg.

Among other things the association will consider the advisability of raising prices on certain lines of ware and also the discontinuance of the what are known as southern teas.

The following persons from this city are in attendance:

George C. Thompson, N. A. Frederick, Colonel John N. Taylor, Charles F. Goodwin, E. H. Sebring, G. W. Ashbaugh.

Severely Injured.

John Morgan, the well known knife sharpener, of Wellsville, was thrown from a street car in the Diamond at noon today and had his arm severely injured.

The motorman started the car before Morgan had gotten off, as he was watching a lady getting off the other side of the car.

YOUTHFUL GANG OF POKER FIENDS

They Were Having a Quiet Game on the Green When the Police

APPEARED ON THE SCENE

The Boys Were Good Sprinters and Lost No Time In Getting Away.

THREE OF THEM ARRESTED

Complaint was made to the authorities yesterday that a crowd of small boys had been playing poker on Thompson's green, and requested that a stop be put to the practice.

Officers Morris and Davidson shortly after noon yesterday hid themselves to Thompson's pottery and secreted themselves where they could command a view of the green and had not long to wait.

About 2 o'clock seven boys came down the track, and when all had assembled a ring was formed and the crowd proceeded to "bust" a few jack pots. "Shorty" Rusby was banker and stood up so he could see for some distance. It was also his duty to keep the crowd informed as to any danger from the police.

Things went all right until the officers had sized up the whole crowd. They emerged from the pottery and when the boys spied them they stopped the game abruptly and started up the railroad. When the police increased their pace so did the boys, but finally started to run.

They were chased around the pottery and up the river. When a point near the street railway power house was reached the boys changed their course and went over the hill. In the meantime Officer Davidson had taken a car and arrived at the power house in time to see the direction taken by the poker players. Officer Morris, who had walked up the railway track, arrived shortly afterward and together they came to the Diamond on a car. They arrived downtown before the boys and were there to receive them.

The crowd had separated, however, and the police were compelled to look for them separately. Officer Dawson was mustered into service and young McDole and William Podwell were located at the corner of Sixth and Washington, where an exciting chase took place.

Podwell and McDole separated and one went down the Midway, while the other chose Sixth street. Dawson and Morris followed the latter, while Davidson went after Podwell. They all brought up at the corner of Market and Fifth, but the boys were gone.

Officer Morris afterward captured Podwell on West Market street, and he was taken to jail.

Earl McDole and George Rusby were arrested later in the evening by Officers Dawson, Morris and Davidson. They all pleaded not guilty and they will be heard at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The other four boys who were in the game will likely be taken before night.

Died This Morning.

Helen, the 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Oswalt, died this morning at their home on Jackson square of diphtheria.

The funeral took place this afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. Gorrell officiating. Interment was made in River-view cemetery.

CHRISTMAS DINNER.

SALVATION ARMY WILL GIVE ONE TO THE WORTHY POOR.

The Feast Will be Served in the Barracks, And Citizens Are Asked to Contribute.

The Salvation Army will give a Christmas dinner to the worthy poor of the city.

It is the intention of Ensign Job and his corps of workers to have the dinner served in the barracks on Christmas day, and the people of the city will be asked to furnish the eatables.

Soliciting committees will be formed and every person will be given a chance to donate to this worthy cause, which will give joy and happiness to the 150 worthy poor people of East Liverpool.

There is no doubt but that the citizens will respond nobly to the call and that the dinner will be an immense success.

BIG HOLE IN THE PACKET KANAWHA

Fog Was Very Dense and She Had a Collision With the Packet Leroy.

THE LEROY WAS NOT DAMAGED

Kanawha Patched the Hole With a Piece of Canvas and Got Lost

IN THE FOG WHEN NEAR HERE

The Pittsburg-Charleston packet, Kanawha, and the packet LeRoy, which runs out of Wheeling, collided near Moundsville Sunday morning, and a hole was knocked in the bow of the Kanawha.

According to the story of passengers who were on the boat and left this city on the noon train yesterday for their homes in Beaver and Pittsburg, it was very foggy when the boat was near Moundsville. The watch was asked if he wanted to be relieved and he said he would like to be long enough to get his overcoat. He told the other man that he saw a boat coming down the river and the Kanawha whistled for the left side and received no answer. The next instant the Le Roy crashed into her with the above result.

Canvas was placed over the hole in the bow and the boat proceeded on her way to Pittsburg.

All went well until Sunday night when they were again caught in the fog a short distance from this city and became lost. The boat turned around and was going down stream when the Keystone State was discovered tied up to the beach and after some difficulty the Kanawha was made fast. She passed up yesterday for Pittsburg, where she will undergo repairs.

The Ben Hur and Keystone State passed down last night and both boats did a good business at this port. The Keystone made a very quick trip, being compelled to lay up Sunday night on account of the heavy fog.

The marks at the wharf this morning registered 10 feet and falling slowly. If the rain keeps up there are good prospects of another big river.

Getting Away.

THREE OF THEM ARRESTED

Complaint was made to the authorities yesterday that a crowd of small boys had been playing poker on Thompson's green, and requested that a stop be put to the practice.

Officers Morris and Davidson shortly after noon yesterday hid themselves to Thompson's pottery and secreted themselves where they could command a view of the green and had not long to wait.

About 2 o'clock seven boys came down the track, and when all had assembled a ring was formed and the crowd proceeded to "bust" a few jack pots. "Shorty" Rusby was banker and stood up so he could see for some distance. It was also his duty to keep the crowd informed as to any danger from the police.

Things went all right until the officers had sized up the whole crowd. They emerged from the pottery and when the boys spied them they stopped the game abruptly and started up the railroad. When the police increased their pace so did the boys, but finally started to run.

They were chased around the pottery and up the river. When a point near the street railway power house was reached the boys changed their course and went over the hill. In the meantime Officer Davidson had taken a car and arrived at the power house in time to see the direction taken by the poker players. Officer Morris, who had walked up the railway track, arrived shortly afterward and together they came to the Diamond on a car. They arrived downtown before the boys and were there to receive them.

The crowd had separated, however, and the police were compelled to look for them separately. Officer Dawson was mustered into service and young McDole and William Podwell were located at the corner of Sixth and Washington, where an exciting chase took place.

Podwell and McDole separated and one went down the Midway, while the other chose Sixth street. Dawson and Morris followed the latter, while Davidson went after Podwell. They all brought up at the corner of Market and Fifth, but the boys were gone.

Officer Morris afterward captured Podwell on West Market street, and he was taken to jail.

Earl McDole and George Rusby were arrested later in the evening by Officers Dawson, Morris and Davidson. They all pleaded not guilty and they will be heard at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The other four boys who were in the game will likely be taken before night.

Died This Morning.

Helen, the 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Oswalt, died this morning at their home on Jackson square of diphtheria.

The funeral took place this afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. Gorrell officiating. Interment was made in River-view cemetery.

CHRISTMAS DINNER.

SALVATION ARMY WILL GIVE ONE TO THE WORTHY POOR.

The Feast Will be Served in the Barracks, And Citizens Are Asked to Contribute.

The Salvation Army will give a Christmas dinner to the worthy poor of the city.

It is the intention of Ensign Job and his corps of workers to have the dinner served in the barracks on Christmas day, and the people of the city will be asked to furnish the eatables.

Soliciting committees will be formed and every person will be given a chance to donate to this worthy cause, which will give joy and happiness to the 150 worthy poor people of East Liverpool.

There is no doubt but that the citizens will respond nobly to the call and that the dinner will be an immense success.

BIG HOLE IN THE PACKET KANAWHA

Fog Was Very Dense and She Had a Collision With the Packet Leroy.

THE LEROY WAS NOT DAMAGED

Kanawha Patched the Hole With a Piece of Canvass and Got Lost

IN THE FOG WHEN NEAR HERE

The Pittsburg-Charleston packet, Kanawha, and the packet LeRoy, which runs out of Wheeling, collided near Moundsville Sunday morning, and a hole was knocked in the bow of the Kanawha.

According to the story of passengers who were on the boat and left this city on the noon train yesterday for their homes in Beaver and Pittsburg, it was very foggy when the boat was near Moundsville. The watch was asked if he wanted to be relieved and he said he would like to be long enough to get his overcoat. He told the other man that he saw a boat coming down the river and the Kanawha whistled for the left side and received no answer. The next instant the Le Roy crashed into her with the above result.

Canvas was placed over the hole in the bow and the boat proceeded on her way to Pittsburg.

All went well until Sunday night when they were again caught in the fog a short distance from this city and became lost. The boat turned around and was going down stream when the Keystone State was discovered tied up to the beach and after some difficulty the Kanawha was made fast. She passed up yesterday for Pittsburg, where she will undergo repairs.

The Ben Hur and Keystone State passed down last night and both boats did a good business at this port. The Keystone made a very quick trip, being compelled to lay up Sunday night on account of the heavy fog.

The marks at the wharf this morning registered 10 feet and falling slowly. If the rain keeps up there are good prospects of another big river.

GOING TO STIR UP TRENTON POTTERS

Brotherhood to Begin a Campaign
With Mass Meetings and Speakers With Reputations.

HATCHIN TELLS OF CONDITION

American Federation of Labor Will Detail Men to Trenton to Revive Interest.

HUGHES GOING TO CONVENTION

The Trenton True American of yesterday prints the following in regard to the pottery situation:

Trenton within a very short time will be the scene of a big movement in the cause of organized labor.

The Brotherhood of Operative Potters is at its back and it will undoubtedly end in bringing about a complete reorganization of the pottery forces in this city.

The pottery trade is certainly in a distressing condition, and, prompted mainly by that reason, the executive board of the Brotherhood held its meeting last week at East Liverpool. The Brotherhood is cut up into factions.

The jiggermen have left the ranks, and are now an independent organization, and some dissatisfaction is evident in other branches of the trade.

The meetings of the locals are poorly attended, and, in fact, the whole organization is badly in need of a general shaking up.

The executive board has hit upon a plan, which, is successful, will have the desired effect.

The executive board at its meeting last week detailed President Hughes to represent the Brotherhood at the national convention of the American Federation of Labor, which takes place at Louisville, Ky., next Thursday.

While there Mr. Hughes will arrange with some labor leaders of national prominence to come to this city and help in forming a permanent organization.

Mr. Hughes informed the Trenton members of the board last week that he will come to this city immediately after the holidays, and perhaps Secretary Duffy will accompany him.

Mr. Hughes will immediately arrange for a number of mass meetings, to be addressed by the men he will obtain in the convention next Thursday.

All the factions will be brought together, including the jiggermen, and the plans of the board will be presented to them.

Mr. Hughes' visit this time has nothing whatever to do with the new scale.

It is a permanent organization Mr. Hughes wants, as the Brotherhood motto is "In Union There is Strength."

Organizers will, in all probability, be stationed here until the desired result is accomplished.

It is the Brotherhood's intention to endeavor to establish an arbitration board in the east, to be composed of members of the Brotherhood and the manufacturers, who will settle all differences of a local nature which may chance to arise.

This system of arbitration is in effect in the west, and it has produced excellent results.

It has been a means of bringing the men into close relations with their employers and the conditions of the trade in the west is today far in advance of that in the east, simply because the men are organized.

Speaking with Vice President Hutchins yesterday in regard to his trip west he said:

"One of the most noticeable features of our trip west was the prosperous condition of the potteries there.

"The plants are running night and day and some of the manufacturers are far behind in their orders.

"Almost every incoming train brings scores of merchants from the nearby towns, trying to hurry the manufacturers with their orders."

The members of the board spent a great part of their time in visiting the different plants there, also some of the new ones recently erected, and they are all fitted up with the latest appliances.

The prosperity west of the Alleghenies is, from Mr. Hutchins' statement, a striking contrast to the conditions existing here.

Several of the plants here are working on short time, while in previous years this was their busy season in supplying holiday orders.

The uniform price list is by no means a dead issue, and the Brotherhood has shown no signs of relinquishing it.

It is not their intention to enforce it, but simply prevail upon the men to accept it, which they hold they should do, because they adopted it at the Pittsburgh convention.

If the scale is put in force here it is probable that some changes will be made in order to meet the inconveniences the men are forced to work under, but at the same time the list will be used as the base of operations.

Mr. Hutchins, in speaking of the list as it is now in force in the west, says that the potters there now are fully satisfied that they are more than reimbursed for the losses they suffered when the list was first put into effect.

The executive board further has sent the manufacturers a communication asking their association to appoint a committee to confer with the committee from the Brotherhood for the purpose of making a number of changes in the uniform price list.

The uniform scale was a new departure among the potters and they had had three months' experience with it when they went into convention at Wheeling in July. There were a number of departments or branches of the trade that were not embodied in the scale and the different locals through their delegates in convention passed several resolutions in regard to these matters.

A meeting of the manufacturers will be held the first week in December, when the proposed changes will be discussed.

CANDIDATES ARE GETTING READY

A Large Number of People Who
Have a Desire to Serve
Their County.

FOUR OFFICES TO BE FILLED

This City Will Have a Share of Candidates, and Salem Is Represented.

THE CANVASS WILL BEGIN EARLY

Candidates for office who will make the race next spring at the Republican primaries are springing up like mushrooms, and before the time for the primaries arrive there will be a large bunch of people who would like to hold office in the field.

The offices to fill are:
Treasurer, commissioner, representative (two to elect), infirmary director.

The commissioner that will retire is French, of Salem, and the prospective candidates for this office are:
Ira Kannal, Unity township.
Henry Hillman, Leetonia.
Melvin Varnes, Lisbon.
Eden Reeder, Hanover township.
S. R. Dixon, East Liverpool.
George Grosshans, East Liverpool.

The announced candidates for treasurer are:
W. A. Thompson, Salineville.
J. W. Irwin, East Liverpool.
Charles Snyder, Salem.
S. T. Herbert, East Liverpool.

Albert Hayes, of Salem, is also mentioned as a candidate for this office.

For representative there are two candidates to elect and it goes without saying that Samuel Buell, of Salem, will be given a second term. There are plenty of candidates who would like to accompany him on his next trip to Columbus, and the most prominent among these at the present time are: E. W. Hill and W. B. McCord, of this city.

It is also stated on good authority that Council D. M. McLane, of this city, has a leaning in the same direction and may shy his political castor in the ring, while D. M. Crist, of Moultrie, is also mentioned.

When it comes down to infirmary director the candidates have not commenced to loom up very strong. It is McBride's time to retire and thus far the only parties who have been mentioned for the office are Horace Martin, of Elkrun township, and J. W. Albright, of this city.

Should the above bunch of candidates decide to all remain in the field it will make a warm race.

It is probable the primaries next spring will be held the latter part of March or the early part of April, although the matter is left to the discretion of the candidates, who are given the privilege of setting their own time, as the county central committee figure that they are the people who have to tramp through the mud and pay the fiddler.

Why Are Some Vulgar and Others
Aristocratic?

Why do we respect some vegetables and despise others? The bean is a graceful, confiding, engaging vine, but you never can put beans into poetry or into the highest kind of prose. There is no dignity in the bean.

Corn—which in my garden grows alongside the bean, and, so far as I can see with no affectation of superiority—is however, the child of song. It waves in all literature. But mix it with beans, and its high tone is gone. Succotash is vulgar; it is the bean in it. The bean is a vulgar vegetable, with out culture or any flavor of high society among vegetables.

Then there is the cucumber, like so many people, good for nothing when it is ripe, and the wildness has gone out of it. How inferior to the melon, which grows upon a similar vine! The cucumber is a sort of low comedian in a company where the melon is a minor gentleman.

The lettuce is to me a most interesting study. Lettuce is like conversation: it must be fresh and crisp, so sparkling that you scarcely notice the bitter in it. Lettuce, like most talkers, though, is apt to run rapidly to seed.

Blessed is that sort which comes to a head, and so remains—like a few people I know—growing more solid and satisfactory and tender and whiter at the center.

Lettuce, like conversation, requires a good deal of oil, to avoid friction and keep the company smooth; a pinch of Attie salt, a dash of pepper, mustard and vinegar, but so mixed that you will notice no sharp contrasts, and a trifle of sugar.

I feel that I am in the best society when I am with lettuce. It is in the most select vegetable circle.—Charles Dudley Warner in "My Summer In a Garden."

enough to hand us the little strips of paper just as they receive them—that is, spread out in such a way that we can glance at them, see that they are all right and then place them with the package already collected. The majority of people don't do this, and as a rule the women are the worst of the lot.

"When a woman gets a transfer, she folds it up into as small a space as possible and then stows it away in her purse. When the time comes to collect this from her, she fishes the wad of paper out of the purse, hands it to the conductor and sits back in her seat content with what she has done.

"The conductor has to unfold this piece of paper to see if it is really the proper transfer. This takes time, and when there are a dozen women on the car all doing the same thing the poor conductor has more than he can do to keep his temper. Men as a rule don't fold their transfers, but content themselves with shoving the slips into their pockets and then producing a crumpled piece of paper when it is called for, tossing it to the conductor, who has to smooth it into shape.

"The conductor has to unfold this piece of paper to see if it is really the proper transfer. This takes time, and when there are a dozen women on the car all doing the same thing the poor conductor has more than he can do to keep his temper. Men as a rule don't fold their transfers, but content themselves with shoving the slips into their pockets and then producing a crumpled piece of paper when it is called for, tossing it to the conductor, who has to smooth it into shape.

Brotherhood to Begin a Campaign
With Mass Meetings and

HATCHIN TELLS OF CONDITION

American Federation of Labor Will Detail Men to Trenton to Revive Interest.

HUGHES GOING TO CONVENTION

The Trenton True American of yesterday prints the following in regard to the pottery situation:

Trenton within a very short time will be the scene of a big movement in the cause of organized labor.

The Brotherhood of Operative Potters is at its back and it will undoubtedly end in bringing about a complete reorganization of the pottery forces in this city.

The pottery trade is certainly in a distressing condition, and, prompted mainly by that reason, the executive board of the Brotherhood held its meeting last week at East Liverpool. The Brotherhood is cut up into factions.

The jiggersmen have left the ranks, and are now an independent organization, and some dissatisfaction is evident in other branches of the trade.

The meetings of the locals are poorly attended, and, in fact, the whole organization is badly in need of a general shaking up.

The executive board has hit upon a plan, which, is successful, will have the desired effect.

The executive board at its meeting last week detailed President Hughes to represent the Brotherhood at the national convention of the American Federation of Labor, which takes place at Louisville, Ky., next Thursday.

While there Mr. Hughes will arrange with some labor leaders of national prominence to come to this city and help in forming a permanent organization.

Mr. Hughes informed the Trenton members of the board last week that he will come to this city immediately after the holidays, and perhaps Secretary Duffy will accompany him.

Mr. Hughes will immediately arrange for a number of mass meetings, to be addressed by the men he will obtain in the convention next Thursday.

All the factions will be brought together, including the jiggersmen, and the plans of the board will be presented to them.

Mr. Hughes' visit this time has nothing whatever to do with the new scale.

It is a permanent organization Mr. Hughes wants, as the Brotherhood motto is "In Union There is Strength."

Organizers will, in all probability, be stationed here until the desired result is accomplished.

It is the Brotherhood's intention to endeavor to establish an arbitration board in the east, to be composed of members of the Brotherhood and the manufacturers, who will settle all differences of a local nature which may chance to arise.

This system of arbitration is in effect in the west, and it has produced excellent results.

It has been a means of bringing the men into close relations with their employers and the conditions of the trade in the west is today far in advance of that in the east, simply because the men are organized.

Speaking with Vice President Hutchins yesterday in regard to his trip west he said:

"One of the most noticeable features of our trip west was the prosperous condition of the potteries there.

"The plants are running night and day and some of the manufacturers are far behind in their orders.

"Almost every incoming train brings scores of merchants from the nearby towns, trying to hurry the manufacturers with their orders."

The members of the board spent a great part of their time in visiting the different plants there, also some of the new ones recently erected, and they are all fitted up with the latest appliances.

The prosperity west of the Alleghenies is, from Mr. Hutchins' statement, a striking contrast to the conditions existing here.

Several of the plants here are working on short time, while in previous years this was their busy season in supplying holiday orders.

The uniform price list is by no means a dead issue, and the Brotherhood has shown no signs of relinquishing it.

It is not their intention to enforce it, but simply prevail upon the men to accept it, which they hold they should do, because they adopted it at the Pittsburg convention.

If the scale is put in force here it is probable that some changes will be made in order to meet the inconveniences the men are forced to work under, but at the same time the list will be used as the base of operations.

Mr. Hutchins, in speaking of the list as it is now in force in the west, says that the potters there now are fully satisfied that they are more than reimbursed for the losses they suffered when the list was first put into effect.

The executive board further has sent the manufacturers a communication asking their association to appoint a committee to confer with the committee from the Brotherhood for the purpose of making a number of changes in the uniform price list.

The uniform scale was a new departure among the potters and they had had three months' experience with it when they went into convention at Wheeling in July. There were a number of departments or branches of the trade that were not embodied in the scale and the different locals through their delegates in convention passed several resolutions in regard to these matters.

A meeting of the manufacturers will be held the first week in December, when the proposed changes will be discussed.

Attorney W. B. Hill Files an Answer to the Suit Instituted by Joseph L. Deidrick.

Lisbon, Dec. 4.—(Special).—W. B. Hill, as executor of the estate of the late William Baggott, of East Liverpool, has filed an answer in the case recently instituted against him by Joseph L. Deidrick.

Deidrick claims a judgment for $987 50, which he claims due him for work done for Baggott as the surviving partner of the late firm of the S. & W. Baggott company.

The defendant claims that if he ever did perform any such work the account did not accrue within six years before the filing of the action.

CANDIDATES ARE GETTING READY

Have a Desire to Serve
Their County.

FOUR OFFICES TO BE FILLED

This City Will Have a Share of Candidates, and Salem Is Represented.

THE CANVASS WILL BEGIN EARLY

Candidates for office who will make the race next spring at the Republican primaries are springing up like mushrooms, and before the time for the primaries arrive there will be a large bunch of people who would like to hold office in the field.

The offices to fill are:
Treasurer, commissioner, representative (two to elect), infirmary director.

The commissioner that will retire is French, of Salem, and the prospective candidates for this office are:

Ira Kannal, Unity township.
Henry Hillman, Leetonia.
Melvin Varnes, Lisbon.
Eden Reeder, Hanover township.
S. R. Dixon, East Liverpool.
George Grosshans, East Liverpool.
The announced candidates for treasurer are:

W. A. Thompson, Salineville.
J. W. Irwin, East Liverpool.
Charles Snyder, Salem.
S. T. Herbert, East Liverpool.

Albert Hayes, of Salem, is also mentioned as a candidate for this office.

For representative there are two candidates to elect and it goes without saying that Samuel Buell, of Salem, will be given a second term. There are plenty of candidates who would like to accompany him on his next trip to Columbus, and the most prominent among these at the present time are: E. W. Hill and W. B. McCord, of this city.

It is also stated on good authority that Council D. M. McLane, of this city, has a leaning in the same direction and may shy his political castor in the ring, while D. M. Crist, of Moultrie, is also mentioned.

When it comes down to infirmary director the candidates have not commenced to loom up very strong. It is McBride's time to retire and thus far the only parties who have been mentioned for the office are Horace Martin, of Elkrun township, and J. W. Albright, of this city.

Should the above bunch of candidates decide to all remain in the field it will make a warm race.

It is probable the primaries next spring will be held the latter part of March or the early part of April, although the matter is left to the discretion of the candidates, who are given the privilege of setting their own time, as the county central committee figure that they are the people who have to tramp through the mud and pay the fiddler.

VEGETABLES.

Why Are Some Vulgar and Others
Aristocratic?

Why do we respect some vegetables and despise others? The bean is a graceful, confiding, engaging vine, but you never can put beans into poetry or into the highest kind of prose. There is no dignity in the bean.

Corn—which in my garden grows alongside the bean, and so far as I can see with no affectation of superiority—is however, the child of song. It waves in all literature. But mix it with beans, and its high tone is gone. Succotash is vulgar; it is the bean in it. The bean is a vulgar vegetable, with out culture or any flavor of high society among vegetables.

Then there is the cucumber, like so many people, good for nothing when it is ripe, and the wildness has gone out of it. How inferior to the melon, which grows upon a similar vine! The cucumber is a sort of low comedian in a company where the melon is a minor gentleman.

The lettuce is to me a most interesting study. Lettuce is like conversation: it must be fresh and crisp, so sparkling that you scarcely notice the bitter in it. Lettuce, like most talkers, though, is apt to run rapidly to seed.

Blessed is that sort which comes to a head, and so remains—like a few people I know—growing more solid and satisfactory and tender and whiter at the center.

Lettuce, like conversation, requires a good deal of oil, to avoid friction and keep the company smooth; a pinch of Attic salt, a dash of pepper, mustard and vinegar, but so mixed that you will notice no sharp contrasts, and a trifle of sugar.

I feel that I am in the best society when I am with lettuce. It is in the most select vegetable circle.—Charles Dudley Warner in "My Summer In a Garden."

enough to hand us the little strips of paper just as they receive them—that is, spread out in such a way that we can glance at them, see that they are all right and then place them with the package already collected. The majority of people don't do this, and as a rule the women are the worst of the lot.

"When a woman gets a transfer, she folds it up into as small a space as possible and then stows it away in her purse. When the time comes to collect this from her, she fishes the wad of paper out of the purse, hands it to the conductor and sits back in her seat content with what she has done.

"The conductor has to unfold this piece of paper to see if it is really the proper transfer. This takes time, and when there are a dozen women on the car all doing the same thing the poor conductor has more than he can do to keep his temper. MORE ABOUT SCARLET WOMEN

This Third Street Resident Denounces Them In No Measured Terms.

THE DEN MUST BE CLOSED

This Gentleman Has Confidence In Mayor Davidson's Desire For Good Government.

AN HONEST WOMAN SPEAKS OUT

This morning, while seated in our sanctum sanctorum, a prominent and well known citizen called at the office and thus made comment respecting this paper and its action in denouncing the infamous den of death doing business on Third street:

"I came in purposely this morning, Captain, to commend you for your article in last night's issue headed 'Third Street Den of Death.' You were not harsh, by any manner of means, as the place designated is an utter abomination and a disgrace to our city. I blame the man who owns the property, or the agent who rents it to such cattle, as much as I do the cattle themselves. I know that, at times, these creatures will secure property, and the agents or owners be unaware of their true character or lack of character; and I further know that it is a hard matter for the law to catch such customers, as they are very cute and cunning in their nefarious work. But these special creatures, these scarlet women of death, have become very bold and reckless; so much so that I have personally notified the agent who rents the property to them of their vile words and vile actions, indulged in to such an extent as to make them a nuisance in the immediate neighborhood, and a menace to decency and good morals.

"Further, I have personally notified one of our policemen and made him acquainted with the facts which have come to my knowledge; facts which should have resulted in some action being taken against the shameless occupants of the den in question. I am charitable enough to believe that the officer referred to is a good policeman, citizen and guardian of the peace, and he may be engaged in accumulating undeniable proof against these scarlet women before he takes fuller action.

"Only a few days since, these shameless women indulged in such open and public exposure of themselves as to call down fierce denunciations from men who are not over particular in their condemnation of evil.

"This house is, as you have said, a regular assignation house, the very worst class of house which can exist in any community. I heard an honest woman in the immediate neighborhood call the vile proprietress of this assignation house to account openly only a few days since, telling the said proprietress that she deserved a good horsewhipping for decoying young girls in her den and for permitting married women to make the house a center for criminal practice. And the said proprietress made use, openly, of language which should have placed her behind prison bars, she denying everything of which she was accused, until the courageous woman confronting her said: 'You can't browbeat me, you shameless creature. Mrs. McDuff (and that's not her name) is at this moment in your den, and Mr. Obaff (and that's not his name) has just joined her, and you and your gang and your patrons in general should be in the work house, and I'll do my level best to see that you are sent there.' 'Isn't it a shame, sir, that such dens can exist in our bright and prosperous little city of East Liverpool? There is something radically wrong, and the quicker it is made right, the better for all concerned. If necessary, I will become one of a vigilance committee which will see to it that the law is enforced against all such debased and abandoned creatures, male or female.

"Let me be just, however, in stating that I believe that Mayor Davidson will take immediate measures looking to the suppression of these dens of iniquity in our midst, and that he will deal out stern justice to any official who will dare to wink at the evil practices of these blots upon society.

Report on the Condition of the Soldiers' And Sailors' Home at Sandusky.

The annual report of the board of trustees and officers of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Home at Sandusky was filed at the governor's office Friday.

It shows a very satisfactory condition of affairs at the home with no financial deficiencies in any of the departments.

The report states that at present there are 1,337 inmates, taxing the capacity of the institution to the utmost and that the total cost of maintaining the home during the year past was $183,790 69. The per capita cost was $151 14, about the same as last year.

Many improvements have been made this year and two new cottages are under process of construction. The officers are heartily commended for their work.

Prof. Rayman did all in his power for his city, but the odds were against him and the meeting went to Zanesville.

NO TIME FOR FRIENDSHIP.

That Old Fashioned Quality Is Said to Be Out of Date.

Friendship is said to be out of date. We certainly have not much time to spare nowadays, even to reflect on what the rush and hurry and bustle of modern life are costing us. Now and again, however, there is borne in upon us the sad realization of the losses we sustain as we tear and scramble through what we now call life. And is not one of these the power of establishing close friendships?

It is a sad reflection, but the more we think of it the truer we shall find it to be, that we no longer have time to knit together these bonds of true friendship and affection which bound our predecessors together and made life sweet to them.

We are always in a hurry, rushing here and there. We meet and know many people in crowds and yet never have time to understand them, to give them or gain from them sympathy. We can scarcely spare an hour that is unconnected with some form of entertainment or some business matter to those we call our closest friends.

Letter writing has been reduced to its least common denominator as time presses on us heavily, and we have no pursuits that we can share with our so called friends that enable us to study each other's characters. Friendship, in fact, has become a mere term with the general run of people.—Chicago Record

Bright's Threat to His Wife.

Two characteristic anecdotes of John Bright are given in Sir Edward Russell's memoirs, which he has published under the title "That Reminds Me."

Bright was supposed to be a total abstainer, but once when Edward Miall was very nervous at the prospect of having to make an important speech in the house, Bright said:

"Well, Miall, if I were you, I'd for once go and have a pint of champagne."

Mr. Miall did as he was told, and the result may be judged from the narrator's comment that 'champagne on an unaccustomed interior is not always a curative or a tonic.'

Bright "rarely had any difference with his wife," but occasionally they were not at one about the children. When they came to a point of absolute disagreement, he used to say:

"Now, I tell thee, if thou doesn't do what I wish, I'll go straight to Mr. Gladstone and ask him to make me a knight," to which the answer invariably was:

"Oh, anything rather than that."

IT'S IMPOSSIBLE

To Disprove Facts—It is Decidedly Easy to Verify East Liverpool Opinion.

Nothing by way of an introduction can be added to the experience and opinions given below, which could increase their value. East Liverpool people can safely be left to draw their own conclusions based on such convincing proof as this citizen offers. What is there lacking in evidence like this 'to satisfy a dyed-in-the-wool doubting Thomas?

Mr. Wm. Anderson, of 305 Lisbon street, says: "During the Civil war I enlisted and served three years in the 42d Ohio infantry. From the exposure during the war I attribute the severe aching and weakness in the loins and muscular rheumatism of recent years, which all seemed to center in my kidneys. In the morning when first getting up I was very dizzy until I had moved around for a time, and my nervous system became affected, causing a fluttering and fullness around the heart. Seeing an advertisement in the News Review I got Doan's Kidney Pills at W. & W. pharmacy and took them. A few doses gave me relief. The improvement was gradual and continued as the medicine got more thoroughly into my system. I firmly believe that Doan's Kidney Pills will in every case as they did in mine, prove the justness of the claims made for them."

Now and again, however, there is borne in upon us the sad realization of the losses we sustain as we tear and scramble through what we now call life. And is not one of these the power of establishing close friendships?

It is a sad reflection, but the more we think of it the truer we shall find it to be, that we no longer have time to knit together these bonds of true friendship and affection which bound our predecessors together and made life sweet to them.

We are always in a hurry, rushing here and there. We meet and know many people in crowds and yet never have time to understand them, to give them or gain from them sympathy. We can scarcely spare an hour that is unconnected with some form of entertainment or some business matter to those we call our closest friends.

Letter writing has been reduced to its least common denominator as time presses on us heavily, and we have no pursuits that we can share with our so-called friends that enable us to study each other's characters. Friendship, in fact, has become a mere term with the general run of people.—Chicago Record

Bright's Threat to His Wife.

Two characteristic anecdotes of John Bright are given in Sir Edward Russell's memoirs, which he has published under the title "That Reminds Me—"

Bright was supposed to be a total abstainer, but once when Edward Miall was very nervous at the prospect of having to make an important speech in the house, Bright said:

"Well, Miall, if I were you, I'd for once go and have a pint of champagne."

Mr. Miall did as he was told, and the result may be judged from the narrator's comment that "champagne on an unaccustomed interior is not always a curative or a tonic."

Bright "rarely had any difference with his wife," but occasionally they were not at one about the children. When they came to a point of absolute disagreement, he used to say:

"Now, I tell 'bee, if thou doesn't do what I wish, I'll go straight to Mr. Gladstone and ask him to make me a knight," to which the answer invariably was:

"Oh, anything rather than that."

IT'S IMPOSSIBLE

To Disprove Facts—It is Decidedly Easy to Verify East Liverpool Opinion.

Nothing by way of an introduction can be added to the experience and opinions given below, which could increase their value. East Liverpool people can safely be left to draw their own conclusions based on such convincing proof as this citizen offers. What is there lacking in evidence like this to satisfy a dyed-in-the-wool doubting Thomas?

Mr. Wm. Anderson, of 305 Lisbon street, says: "During the Civil war I enlisted and served three years in the 42d Ohio infantry. From the exposure during the war I attribute the severe aching and weakness in the loins and muscular rheumatism of recent years, which all seemed to center in my kidneys. In the morning when first getting up I was very dizzy until I had moved around for a time, and my nervous system became affected, causing a fluttering and fullness around the heart. Seeing an advertisement in the News Review I got Doan's Kidney Pills at W. & W. pharmacy and took them. A few doses gave me relief. The improvement was gradual and continued as the medicine got more thoroughly into my system. I firmly believe that Doan's Kidney Pills will in every case as they did in mine, prove the justness of the claims made for them."

Sold for 50 cents per box by all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

MORE ABOUT SCARLET WOMEN

This Third Street Resident Denounces Them In No Measured Terms.

THE DEN MUST BE CLOSED

This Gentleman Has Confidence In Mayor Davidson's Desire For Good Government.

AN HONEST WOMAN SPEAKS OUT

This morning, while seated in our sanctum sanctorum, a prominent and well known citizen called at the office and thus made comment respecting this paper and its action in denouncing the infamous den of death doing business on Third street:

"I came in purposely this morning, Captain, to commend you for your article in last night's issue headed 'Third Street Den of Death.' You were not harsh, by any manner of means, as the place designated is an utter abomination and a disgrace to our city. I blame the man who owns the property, or the agent who rents it to such cattle, as much as I do the cattle themselves. I know that, at times, these creatures will secure property, and the agents or owners be unaware of their true character or lack of character; and I further know that it is a hard matter for the law to catch such customers, as they are very cute and cunning in their nefarious work. But these special creatures, these scarlet women of death, have become very bold and reckless; so much so that I have personally notified the agent who rents the property to them of their vile words and viler actions, indulged in to such an extent as to make them a nuisance in the immediate neighborhood, and a menace to decency and good morals.

"Further, I have personally notified one of our policemen and made him acquainted with the facts which have come to my knowledge; facts which should have resulted in some action being taken against the shameless occupants of the den in question. I am charitable enough to believe that the officer referred to is a good policeman, citizen and guardian of the peace, and he may be engaged in accumulating undeniable proof against these scarlet women before he takes fuller action.

"Only a few days since, these shameless women indulged in such open and public exposure of themselves as to call down fierce denunciations from men who are not over particular in their condemnation of evil.

"This house is, as you have said, a regular assignation house, the very worst class of house which can exist in any community. I heard an honest woman in the immediate neighborhood call the vile proprietress of this assignation house to account openly only a few days since, telling the said proprietress that she deserved a good horsewhipping for decoying young girls in her den and for permitting married women to make the house a center for criminal practice. And the said proprietress made use, openly, of language which should have placed her behind prison bars, she denying everything of which she was accused, until the courageous woman confronting her said: 'You can't browbeat me, you shameless creature. Mrs. McDuff (and that's not her name) is at this moment in your den, and Mr. Obaff (and that's not his name) has just joined her, and you and your gang and your patrons in general should be in the work house, and I'll do my level best to see that you are sent there.' 'Isn't it a shame, sir, that such dens can exist in our bright and prosperous little city of East Liverpool? There is something radically wrong, and the quicker it is made right, the better for all concerned. If necessary, I will become one of a vigilance committee which will see to it that the law is enforced against all such debased and abandoned creatures, male or female.

"Let me be just, however, in stating that I believe that Mayor Davidson will take immediate measures looking to the suppression of these dens of iniquity in our midst, and that he will deal out stern justice to any official who will dare to wink at the evil practices of these blots upon society.

"THIRD STREET RESIDENT."

TRUSTEES.

Report on the Condition of the Soldiers' And Sailors' Home at Sandusky.

The annual report of the board of trustees and officers of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Home at Sandusky was filed at the governor's office Friday.

It shows a very satisfactory condition of affairs at the home with no financial deficiencies in any of the departments.

The report states that at present there are 1,337 inmates, taxing the capacity of the institution to the utmost and that the total cost of maintaining the home during the year past was $183,790 69. The per capita cost was $151 14, about the same as last year.

Many improvements have been made this year and two new cottages are under process of construction. The officers are heartily commended for their work.

Coshocton Age.

Superintendent Lash came from Zanesville with the firm determination to land the next meeting of the association for his town, and Superintendent Rayman came from East Liverpool with a similar resolution tucked away under his hat.

An effort was made to have the committee meet Friday night, but the members were too busy. Saturday morning they took up the question and settled on Zanesville, it being more centrally located.

Prof. Rayman did all in his power for his city, but the odds were against him and the meeting went to Zanesville.

The Officials of the Clerks' Union Tell Us That We Were in Error Last Night.

From what we considered reliable authority, the News Review last night made the announcement that the stores would remain open for each evening from the present date until after the holidays. Officials of the clerks' union now inform us that we are in error, and that the date for opening has been fixed for Tuesday night, December 11, and continue for two weeks, keeping open until 9 o'clock each evening. We gladly make this correction, and hope that the generous natures connected with the clerks' organization will forgive the unintentional break.

All doubt as to the death of poor Casey is now set at rest, and his suffering and sorrowing wife will be compelled to accept the fiat of fate. In your happy homes, readers of the News Review, breathe a true prayer of sympathy for this sadly bereaved wife and her orphan children; and, if an opportunity be offered you, let that sympathy assume a practical form, as actions speak louder than words.

"THE SALOON DIRECTORY."

Have you seen a copy of this delectable pamphlet? One of our councilmanic body was inspecting a copy yesterday and making criticisms and comments respecting the pictures, advertisements and reading matter. In this he was assisted by a well known business man, and the conversation would have been richly enjoyed had it been repeated in the presence of a large audience of our representative citizens. Council acted very wisely when it refused to father the monstrosity.

SQUARE DEALING.

Square dealing, honest and above board, is sure to win in the long run. Treachery and double dealing and chicanery may win for the time being; but they are sure to go to the wall at the finish. The men to whom is entrusted the enforcement of the laws and ordinances enacted for the control of this city will do well if they do their duty to the letter. There are mitherings in the air which bode disaster to officials who are playing a double part. And this is but a note of fair warning. If the shoe does not fit you, do not put it on. It does not embrace any fair, or true, or just, or honest official. TO OUR READERS.

The entire edition of the News Review was delivered to patrons at an unusually late hour last night. It was a day of accidents in this city, and the delay was simply unavoidable. One of the largest routes in the central part of the city was neglected until a late hour, the papers not going out from this office until almost 6 o'clock, in consequence of a mistake on the part of one of our best carriers, he claiming that he had made arrangements for a substitute carrier to deliver the route last evening, and the substitute failing to materialize. Our subscribers will please pardon us on this occasion, and we shall do our utmost to avoid a repetition.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING.

Very earnest protests against the electric lighting of this city have reached the office of the News Review. Would it not be well for a representative body of our citizens to take this matter in hand and appoint a committee to wait upon Superintendent Healy and endeavor to have him remedy existing defects? We have been informed that Mr. Healy has been making herculean efforts to have the street railway service made first-class in every particular; and if this be the case, then he would no doubt do his utmost, at as early a date as possible, to have the electric lighting made all that can be desired. We have but a slight acquaintance with Superintendent Healy, having met him a few times in a business way; but on those occasions he has been courteous and obliging in the extreme, and has kept his word to the letter.

Since inditing the above, we have had a personal interview with Mr. Healy, in which he stated that he is aware of the fact that the electric lighting system has not been giving satisfaction to patrons, and further stated that it has not been giving him satisfaction, and that he has demanded that necessary improvements be made by the company, under penalty of abandoning their system.

Mr. Healy states that an expert will be here within the next few days and give the matter full attention, after which the customers of the home company will receive full satisfaction in the matter of electric lighting, as none but the very best will be accepted or furnished local patrons.

COMING TO EAST LIVERPOOL.

Educational Advantages at Ohio Valley Business College Prove Very Attractive.

The following young people, anxious respecting educational matters, are coming to East Liverpool and have entered upon a course of study in Ohio Valley Business College, whose reputation for excellency and special advantages for the young folks is rapidly spreading all over the country:

Everett Saint, Calcutta.
Ora Chamberlin, Cannon's Mill.
Charles Kreiter, Wellsville.
Ethel McCann, Wellsville.
Curtiss Deringer, East End.
Clyde Cummins, Wellsville.
Flora Skiles, Kendall, Pa.
Mamie Porter, Steubenville.

The above students entered upon their studies at the college yesterday.

Natives Took Oath of Allegiance.

Manila, Dec. 4.—At Vigan 2,200 natives, nearly all fighting rebels, crowded the church and took the oath of allegiance to the United States. The oath was administered by the priest. All but 500 of those sworn were Bolomen. The number included the twelve hundred Bolomen who had previously surrendered. The services in the church included an address by General Young and an exhortation by the priest.

Rev. Dr. William Howard Day Dead.

Harrisburg, Dec. 4.—Rev. William Howard Day, A. M., D. D., general secretary of the A. M. E. Zion church, died, aged 73 years. He was one of the foremost colored men of his generation.

CRIMINAL CASES FOR NEXT WEEK

The Court Will Dispose of the Prisoners Now In Jail and Others

WHO ARE OUT ON BOND

A Special Grand Jury Will Be Empanelled For Monday Morning at 10 O'Clock.

A FEW CIVIL CASES LISTED

Lisbon, Dec. 4.—(Special.)—Next week in court will be devoted almost exclusively to criminal work after a special grand jury on Monday completes its work.

The body will be empanelled at 10 o'clock and will only act in such cases in which the accused are either committed to jail or under bond for their appearance.

On Monday the cases of Lucretia Burgman and Eli Stouffer versus Henry N. Stouffer will be tried.

Tuesday—Blanche R. Bartholomew versus John Bartholomew will be tried; Ohio versus Asher A. Galbreath.

Wednesday—Ohio versus Mrs. Bennett Yates; Ohio versus John Holliday; Ohio versus Sanford Evans.

Tuesday and Friday will be devoted to criminal business.

Change in Time of Trains on Pennsylvania Lines.

For the east—3:56 a. m., 6:51 a. m., 11:21 a. m., 3:06 p. m., 7 p. m.

For the west—12:36 a. m., 7:05 a. m., 9:06 a. m., 2:50 p. m., 6:13 p. m.

Sunday trains—East, 5:25 p. m.; west, 9:06 a. m.

For particular information on the subject apply to A. Hill, ticket agent.

FOR SALE—Good horse, wagon and single harness. Inquire at 400 Jethro street.

A Joke of Sydney Smith's.

On the occasion of a dinner Sydney Smith was the guest, and when the evening was over the host thanked the wit heartily for the entertainment he had afforded. "I shall not forget you, Mr. Smith," he added. "Thank you. Take care you don't forget yourself tomorrow (it was Saturday) in church," rejoined Smith, whereat the host, Kershaw by name, rather bridled up.

"I hope, sir, I know how to behave myself in church," "Well," said Smith good temperedly, "if I catch you smiling I will call you by name." "You may," rejoined the visitor. "The thing is absurd. I will give you a donation to the York hospital if it happens."

On the ensuing morning Smith read the prayers reverently, as he always did, then ascended the pulpit, looked around the church and rested his eye on the visitor whose name was Kershaw. That gentleman said afterward that he did not know what possessed him, but so it was he gave a broad smile. Thereupon the preacher was seized with a violent inclination to sneeze, and, applying his handkerchief with suitable action, he sounded "ker ker k-ker-shaw" three times over.

Attached a Buggy.

A. F. Perry yesterday in the court of Squire Rose attached a buggy belonging to Robert Gravatt, the contractor who left the city Sunday. The case is for $36 60 and will be heard tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock.

SET AT REST.

All doubt as to the death of poor Casey is now set at rest, and his suffering and sorrowing wife will be compelled to accept the fiat of fate. In your happy homes, readers of the News Review, breathe a true prayer of sympathy for this sadly bereaved wife and her orphan children; and, if an opportunity be offered you, let that sympathy assume a practical form, as actions speak louder than words.

"THE SALOON DIRECTORY."

Have you seen a copy of this delectable pamphlet? One of our councilmanic body was inspecting a copy yesterday and making criticisms and comments respecting the pictures, advertisements and reading matter. In this he was assisted by a well known business man, and the conversation would have been richly enjoyed had it been repeated in the presence of a large audience of our representative citizens. Council acted very wisely when it refused to father the monstrosity.

SQUARE DEALING.

Square dealing, honest and above board, is sure to win in the long run. Treachery and double dealing and chicanery may win for the time being; but they are sure to go to the wall at the finish. The men to whom is entrusted the enforcement of the laws and ordinances enacted for the control of this city will do well if they do their duty to the letter. There are mutterings in the air which bode disaster to officials who are playing a double part. And this is but a note of fair warning. If the shoe does not fit you, do not put it on. It does not embrace any fair, or true, or just, or honest official. If you are a trickster, a double dealer, a shyster and a cheat, it means you and will continue to mean you until you are fully exposed

TO OUR READERS.

The entire edition of the News Review was delivered to patrons at an unusually late hour last night. It was a day of accidents in this city, and the delay was simply unavoidable. One of the largest routes in the central part of the city was neglected until a late hour, the papers not going out from this office until almost 6 o'clock, in consequence of a mistake on the part of one of our best carriers, he claiming that he had made arrangements for a substitute carrier to deliver the route last evening, and the substitute failing to materialize. Our subscribers will please pardon us on this occasion, and we shall do our utmost to avoid a repetition.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING.

Very earnest protests against the electric lighting of this city have reached the office of the News Review. Would it not be well for a representative body of our citizens to take this matter in hand and appoint a committee to wait upon Superintendent Healy and endeavor to have him remedy existing defects? We have been informed that Mr. Healy has been making herculean efforts to have the street railway service made first-class in every particular; and if this be the case, then he would no doubt do his utmost, at as early a date as possible, to have the electric lighting made all that can be desired. We have but a slight acquaintance with Superintendent Healy, having met him a few times in a business way;

but on those occasions he has been courteous and obliging in the extreme, and has kept his word to the letter.

Since inditing the above, we have had a personal interview with Mr. Healy, in which he stated that he is aware of the fact that the electric lighting system has not been giving satisfaction to patrons, and further stated that it has not been giving him satisfaction, and that he has demanded that necessary improvements be made by the company, under penalty of abandoning their system.

Mr. Healy states that an expert will be here within the next few days and give the matter full attention, after which the customers of the home company will receive full satisfaction in the matter of electric lighting, as none but the very best will be accepted or furnished local patrons.

COMING TO EAST LIVERPOOL.

Educational Advantages at Ohio Valley Business College Prove Very Attractive.

The following young people, anxious respecting educational matters, are coming to East Liverpool and have entered upon a course of study in Ohio Valley Business College, whose reputation for excellency and special advantages for the young folks is rapidly spreading all over the country:

Everett Saint, Calcutta.
Ora Chamberlin, Cannon's Mill.
Charles Kreiter, Wellsville.
Ethel McCann, Wellsville.
Curtiss Deringer, East End.
Clyde Cummins, Wellsville.
Flora Skiles, Kendall, Pa.
Mamie Porter, Steubenville.
The above students entered upon their studies at the college yesterday.

Natives Took Oath of Allegiance.

Manila, Dec. 4.—At Vigan 2,200 natives, nearly all fighting rebels, crowded the church and took the oath of allegiance to the United States. The oath was administered by the priest. All but 500 of those sworn were Bolomen. The number included the twelve hundred Bolomen who had previously surrendered. The services in the church included an address by General Young and an exhortation by the priest.

Rev. Dr. William Howard Day Dead.

A Joke of Sydney Smith's.

On the occasion of a dinner Sydney Smith was the guest, and when the evening was over the host thanked the wit heartily for the entertainment he had afforded. "I shall not forget you, Mr. Smith," he added. "Thank you. Take care you don't forget yourself tomorrow (it was Saturday) in church," rejoined Smith, whereat the host, Kershaw by name, rather bridled up.

"I hope, sir, I know how to behave myself in church," "Well," said Smith good temperedly, "If I catch you smiling I will call you by name." "You may," rejoined the visitor. "The thing is absurd. I will give you a donation to the York hospital if it happens."

On the ensuing morning Smith read the prayers reverently, as he always did, then ascended the pulpit, looked around the church and rested his eye on the visitor whose name was Kershaw. That gentleman said afterward that he did not know what possessed him, but so it was he gave a broad smile. Thereupon the preacher was seized with a violent inclination to sneeze, and, applying his handkerchief with suitable action, he sounded "ker ker k-ker-shaw" three times over.

THREATS MADE OVER TELEPHONE

Somebody Told Joe Winn They Would Shoot His Body Full of Holes.

HE WAS MUCH ALARMED

Thought the Speaker Was Reddy
Mason and at Once Entered a Complaint.

McCARRON DISMISSED THE CASE

The case of J. S. Winn versus "Reddy" Mason was heard in the court of Justice McCarron last evening.

Both sides had subpoenaed a number of witnesses and the affair was in the hands of Attorneys H. E. Grosshans and R. G. Thompson, the latter representing defendant.

It was developed from the statement of plaintiff and from the evidence of several of the witnesses that Winn had, upon the occasion of the alleged offense, been summoned by telephone to John Rinehart's barn, and that the man at the other end of the 'phone had made the statement that he had two revolvers in his possession and would fill him so full of holes he would resemble a pepper box. He could not swear it was Mason at the other end and none of the witnesses examined knew anything about the affair, other than the fact that they had been in the office when the conversation over the telephone occurred and that Winn had told them what the other man said.

The justice concluded this was rather far-fetched and finally discharged the defendant, assessing the costs upon the plaintiff.

HER "SUSPICION CURE."

It Made Life One Lingering Honeymoon For Mrs. Jones' Adviser.

"I would be quite happy if my husband would not spend so much of his time at his club," said Mrs. Jones, with a sigh.

"Why don't you try the suspicion cure?" said her intimate friend.

"What in the name of Susan B. Anthony is the suspicion cure?" asked Mrs. Jones in amazement.

"Well, my husband got in the habit of spending his evenings at his club, and I worried over it for some time before I hit upon a plan to keep him at home. At first I pleaded with him, telling him how lonely I was at home when he was away, but he would only laugh and promise to be home early, which meant midnight or later. Then I changed my tactics. Instead of asking him to remain at home I urged him to go to his club. The way he raised his eyebrows the first time I suggested it showed me I was on the right tack, and I resolved to keep it up. One night when he came home for dinner he announced that he had a severe headache and would remain home for the evening. I opposed the idea and pointed out that an evening at his club would cause him to forget his headache and do it good. He gave me a hard look, but acted on the suggestion and left for his club. Something told me that he would be back within an hour, so I made an elaborate toilet and waited for him to return. He came home, as I expected, with the plea that his head was worse and that he couldn't stand the noise at the club. I consoled with him and ignored his question concerning my elaborate toilet. He hasn't been away for an evening since. It is almost like the old honeymoon, only he appears to have something on his mind that he is not entirely satisfied about."

An Obstinate Maid.

SOUTH SIDE.

Unclaimed Letters.

Following is a list of the unclaimed letters in the Chester postoffice December 1:

Mrs. Annie McKenna, Mrs. Minnie Appels, Mrs. Mary J. Miller, Mrs. Sara A. McDaniel, Miss Cora Moore, Miss Etta Smith, Miss Ethel Smith, Lena Russell, Annie Jeffs, Philip Carother, L. G. Dudley, J. B. Hendrick, Joe Patterson, George Webster, Philip Jones, Will Appel, William Martin, Mrs. Alex Simpson, C. E. Spencer.

Funeral of Alex Johnson.

The funeral of Alex Johnson took place from his late home yesterday afternoon, interment being made at Fairview cemetery, Rev. Phipps officiating.

Mr. Johnson was one of the oldest residents of the Grant district, and was last but one of a family of eight children, the remaining member being Mrs. Mary Jane Miller, an aged resident of Calcutta.

Suspended Work.

The work of laying the water mains in Chester was suspended today owing to the wet weather. The pipe will be laid in the lower end of town and the work finished up in about two weeks. The force are now working at the First avenue bridge.

Wants a Location.

The father of Dr. Clancey, of Chicago, was in Chester today looking up a location for his son. The young man is at present connected with the Chicago Medical institute.

Southside Notes.

J. B. Pierce left this morning for Carnegie, Pa., where he has taken a position.

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Neal have moved from Liverpool to Chester.

James McCready, of near Pittsburg, was visiting in Chester yesterday.

The new business block being erected on Virginia avenue by John Shrader is almost completed, and the store room and living apartments have already been rented.

A Story of Anthony Hope.

Anthony Hope Hawkins, always a believer in men of letters standing by each other, worked tremendously hard to help on the fund which the Authors' society of London is trying to accumulate, from which pensions are to be paid to authors whose literary merit has not brought them a corresponding income and who view increasing years with fear.

Once an unfortunate writer who visited Mr. Hawkins at his rooms in Buckingham street, by the Embankment gardens, exclaimed on leaving with something in his pocket, "Oh, sir, I feel that Providence must have sent me to you!"

And the reply came with a twinkle in his benefactor's eye, "Let us hope, however, that Providence will not acquire the habit of doing so."—Argonaut.

Camels in Water.

Camels cannot swim. They are very buoyant, but ill balanced, and their heads go under water. They can, however, be taught to swim rivers with the aid of goatskins or jars fastened under their necks. During the Baluchistan expedition of 1898 the camels were lowered into the sea from the ships, and their drivers, plunging overboard, clambered on to the backs of their charges, causing the animals' heads to come up, and thus assisted they were successfully piloted ashore.

Objectionable Features.

Naggus—I have read your speech, Borus, and, to tell the truth, I don't like its physiognomy.

Borus—Its physiognomy? What do you mean?

Naggus—Its I's are too close together.—Chicago Tribune.

Not a Song Bird.

"He said I was swanlike, I believe," said Miss Rawkis. "Wasn't that gallant of him?"

"Oh, I don't know," replied Miss Peppery. "It was while you were trying to sing that he made the remark."—Exchange.

EAST END.

NO GAS.

A Break in the Line of the Ft. Pitt Pitt Company Occurred This Morning Near Toronto.

The Ft. Pitt Gas company had a bad break in their lines below Toronto at 6:45 o'clock this morning and as a result there is a great deal of inconvenience and some suffering in East End.

Nine-tenths of the gas consumers in this section of the city are patrons of the Fort Pitt company. Some of the residents who rose early were enabled to cook breakfast before the break occurred, but the great majority were in the act of cooking the morning meal, while others had not even started.

In some cases the people were compelled to go to work without anything to eat.

The restaurants, however, did a good business all day.

WAITED ONE HOUR.

That is How Long it Took Pottery Employees to Get a Car to the City.

Car No. 4 was disabled this morning near the power house. Some 30 passengers were on board and after tramping about in the mud for some time were finally loaded on another car.

Last evening a crowd of 75 or 80 employes of the East End potteries waited at the Mulberry street crossing from 4:45 until 5:45 before they caught a car for the city.

While they waited four cars passed east, and when they returned after making the run to the loop they were barely sufficient to accommodate the crowd.

W. B. Thomas, in charge of car No. 1, yesterday had more than the ordinary amount of trouble. During the afternoon the car burned out six times.

LOST HER WATCH.

A Large Number of East End People Aided in the Search, But it Couldn't Be Found.

A young woman from Dixonville was so unfortunate last night as to lose her watch somewhere in the vicinity of Mulberry street.

She had come down town early in the evening, but did not discover her loss until about 11 o'clock. Quite a crowd aided in the search, but no trace of the missing time piece could be found.

This morning another search was instituted, but it proved fruitless, and the general opinion is the article was lost before the woman came to town.

The name of the lady could not be learned.

TROUBLE.

Authorities Were Summoned to an East End Restaurant Last Night, But Were Too Late.

There was trouble at an East End restaurant last night, and the authorities were summoned, but Officer Hamilton being absent from the fire station on some other mission they did not respond. The matter was adjusted in some manner before the officer returned and his services were not needed.

DISMISSED SCHOOL.

Children in Both East End Buildings Were Given a Holiday Today.

Owing to the scarcity of gas both the East End and Helana schools were dismissed today, as it was altogether too cold for the teachers and children to remain in the building.

M'CARRON DISMISSED THE CASE

The case of J. S. Winn versus "Reddy" Mason was heard in the court of Justice McCarron last evening.

Both sides had subpoenaed a number of witnesses and the affair was in the hands of Attorneys H. E. Grosshans and R. G. Thompson, the latter representing defendant.

It was developed from the statement of plaintiff and from the evidence of several of the witnesses that Winn had, upon the occasion of the alleged offense, been summoned by telephone to John Rinehart's barn, and that the man at the other end of the 'phone had made the statement that he had two revolvers in his possession and would fill him so full of holes he would resemble a pepper box. He could not swear it was Mason at the other end and none of the witnesses examined knew anything about the affair, other than the fact that they had been in the office when the conversation over the telephone occurred and that Winn had told them what the other man said.

The justice concluded this was rather far-fetched and finally discharged the defendant, assessing the costs upon the plaintiff.

HER "SUSPICION CURE."

It Made Life One Lingering Honeymoon For Mrs. Jones' Adviser.

"I would be quite happy if my husband would not spend so much of his time at his club," said Mrs. Jones, with a sigh.

"Why don't you try the suspicion cure?" said her intimate friend.

"What in the name of Susan B. Anthony is the suspicion cure?" asked Mrs. Jones in amazement.

"Well, my husband got in the habit of spending his evenings at his club, and I worried over it for some time before I hit upon a plan to keep him at home. At first I pleaded with him, telling him how lonely I was at home when he was away, but he would only laugh and promise to be home early, which meant midnight or later. Then I changed my tactics. Instead of asking him to remain at home I urged him to go to his club. The way he raised his eyebrows the first time I suggested it showed me I was on the right tack, and I resolved to keep it up. One night when he came home for dinner he announced that he had a severe headache and would remain home for the evening. I opposed the idea and pointed out that an evening at his club would cause him to forget his headache and do it good. He gave me a hard look, but acted on the suggestion and left for his club. Something told me that he would be back within an hour, so I made an elaborate toilet and waited for him to return. He came home, as I expected, with the plea that his head was worse and that he couldn't stand the noise at the club. I consoled with him and ignored his question concerning my elaborate toilet. He hasn't been away for an evening since. It is almost like the old honeymoon, only he appears to have something on his mind that he is not entirely satisfied about."

A Story of Anthony Hope.

Anthony Hope Hawkins, always a believer in men of letters standing by each other, worked tremendously hard to help on the fund which the Authors' society of London is trying to accumulate, from which pensions are to be paid to authors whose literary merit has not brought them a corresponding income and who view increasing years with fear.

Once an unfortunate writer who visited Mr. Hawkins at his rooms in Buckingham street, by the Embankment gardens, exclaimed on leaving with something in his pocket, "Oh, sir, I feel that Providence must have sent me to you!"

And the reply came with a twinkle in his benefactor's eye, "Let us hope, however, that Providence will not acquire the habit of doing so."—Argonaut.

NO GAS.

A Break in the Line of the Ft. Pitt Pitt Company Occurred This Morning Near Toronto.

The Ft. Pitt Gas company had a bad break in their lines below Toronto at 6:45 o'clock this morning and as a result there is a great deal of inconvenience and some suffering in East End.

Nine-tenths of the gas consumers in this section of the city are patrons of the Fort Pitt company. Some of the residents who rose early were enabled to cook breakfast before the break occurred, but the great majority were in the act of cooking the morning meal, while others had not even started.

In some cases the people were compelled to go to work without anything to eat.

The restaurants, however, did a good business all day.

That is How Long it Took Pottery Employees to Get a Car to the City.

Car No. 4 was disabled this morning near the power house. Some 30 passengers were on board and after tramping about in the mud for some time were finally loaded on another car.

Last evening a crowd of 75 or 80 employees of the East End potteries waited at the Mulberry street crossing from 4:45 until 5:45 before they caught a car for the city.

While they waited four cars passed east, and when they returned after making the run to the loop they were barely sufficient to accommodate the crowd.

W. B. Thomas, in charge of car No. 1, yesterday had more than the ordinary amount of trouble. During the afternoon the car burned out six times.

LOST HER WATCH.

A Large Number of East End People Aided in the Search, But it Couldn't Be Found.

A young woman from Dixonville was so unfortunate last night as to lose her watch somewhere in the vicinity of Mulberry street.

She had come down town early in the evening, but did not discover her loss until about 11 o'clock. Quite a crowd aided in the search, but no trace of the missing time piece could be found.

This morning another search was instituted, but it proved fruitless, and the general opinion is the article was lost before the woman came to town.

The name of the lady could not be learned.

TROUBLE.

Authorities Were Summoned to an East End Restaurant Last Night, But Were Too Late.

There was trouble at an East End restaurant last night, and the authorities were summoned, but Officer Hamilton being absent from the fire station on some other mission they did not respond. The matter was adjusted in some manner before the officer returned and his services were not needed.

DISMISSED SCHOOL.

SHIP SUBSIDY BILL.

It Will Displace Spooner Subsidy Bill.

REPUBLICAN SENATORS SO DECIDED

Senator Frye May Take Up the Ship Bill Today—Hay-Pouncefote Treaty Next In Importance—Army Measure to Displace Both Whenever It Is Reported.

Washington, Dec. 4.—The Republican senatorial committee on order of business decided that the ship subsidy bill should displace the Spooner Philippine bill as the unfinished business. It also considered at the same time the disposition of the Hay-Pouncefote treaty and decided that that question should receive alternate attention with the shipping bill. The arrangement provides that the shipping bill shall have preference, but that when no one is prepared to make a speech on it the senate shall go into executive session for the consideration of the treaty.

In accordance with this understanding Senator Frye, at the first opportunity today, likely will move to take up the bill, and if this motion prevails, as it probably will, the effect will be to displace the Spooner bill, which there is no disposition at this time to press. Senator Frye probably will make a speech. It is not expected that any other senator will be prepared to proceed on the subsidy measure, and in that event Senator Lodge, of the committee on foreign relations, who will have charge of the treaty, probably will move an executive session in order to consider the treaty.

The arrangement further provides that if the army bill reaches the senate prior to the disposal of the shipping bill or the treaty, either or both of these may be displaced temporarily in order to permit the prompt consideration of that measure, which is considered to be of more pressing importance than either of the other questions. The same understanding prevails regarding the appropriation bills.

Senator Morgan's Nicaraguan canal bill received some consideration at the hands of the committee on order of business. The members of the committee apparently consider that the ratification of the treaty is a necessary preliminary to the passage of the canal bill, and the present disposition is to contend for that order of precedence.

Some of the members who had talked with Democratic senators expressed the opinion that there would be no effort to prevent this legislation by factions opposition, though they expect a number of speeches against it.

Senator Lodge was called into the conference for the purpose of consultation concerning the treaty. He stated that he would be prepared to proceed with it at any time, and that he was anxious to have it disposed of as early as a day as possible.

LIMITING INJUNCTIONS.

Bill Reported to the House With Important Amendments.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Representative Littlefield, of Maine, from the judiciary committee of the house, presented a favorable report on what is known as "the conspiracy" bill, limiting the use of restraining orders and injunctions in disputes between employer and employee in places under federal control.

The report favors two changes in the bill. One strikes out the provision which would have the effect of excepting combinations in trade disputes from the operations of the Sherman anti-trust law. The other amends the bill so it will not cover instances of threats to injure persons or property, business or occupation, or overt acts of interference with the rights of others. Otherwise the bill is preserved in limiting the scope of injunctions.

HONORED THE DEAD.

House Organized, Heard Message and Then Adjourned.

Washington, Dec. 4.—The opening of the session in the house was brilliant, but not exciting. There were the usual throngs in the galleries and the usual display of floral pieces on the floor, but the proceedings were purely formal, consisting of the rapping to order by the speaker, prayer by the chaplain, the roll call of members, the appointment of the formal committees to wait on the president and the reception and reading of the president's message.

The deaths of the late Representatives Dwyer, of New Jersey, and Hoffecker, of Delaware, and Senator Davis, of Minnesota, and Gear, of Iowa, were announced, and as a further mark of respect to their memories the house adjourned until today.

OUT OF RESPECT FOR THE DEAD.

Senate Did Little Business at First Session

Washington, Dec. 4.—In the senate the work of the short session of the fifty-sixth congress was successfully launched.

Aside from the reading of the president's message and the administration of the oath of office to William B. Dillingham, the new senator from Vermont, who succeeds the late Justin S. Morrill, no business was transacted, out of respect to the memory of Senators Davis and Gear.

THE DEMOCRATS DIFFERED.

Their Caucus Was Unable to Agree Regarding Army Reorganization.

Washington, Dec. 4.—A caucus of the Democratic members of the house was held in the hall of the house at the close of the session to consider the course to be taken on army legislation. Representative Hay, of Virginia, a member of the military committee, explained the bill proposed by Secretary Root and urged the desirability of not legislating until the course of the government as to the Philippines had been more definitely determined. He proposed a resolution that the law now in existence as to the army be continued for two years.

Representatives Richardson, Bailey, Carmack, Newlands, Cox and others made speeches, showing considerable diversity of opinion as to what should be done. Mr. Hay finally withdrew his resolution, and the caucus adjourned without action.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Lest he be buried alive Henry G. Moore left $100 in his will for the person who would cut his jugular vein immediately after his death and $500 for the person who would see that his body was properly cremated.

The will was filed for probate in the Surrogate's office today. Mr. Moore died in London recently. He lived in this city for many years.

EVANGELIZE NATION.

Interdenominational Movement Under Way.

A DYING HOPE OF REV. MOODY.

The Idea Also Suggested by the Forward Movement of the Methodist Church—Put Into Practical Form by Evangelist Hall—Conference Held.

New York, Dec. 4.—An interdenominational movement to celebrate the beginning of the twentieth century by a systematic effort to evangelize the nation through the medium of existing churches and church societies, was agreed upon in a secret conference of representative religious workers, which met at the Young Men's Christian association building.

Every prominent religious society was represented. President Francis E. Clark, of the International Christian Endeavor society, came from Boston to attend the conference. Mrs. Margaret Bottoms was there for the King's Daughters.

The Baptist Young People's union, the Epworth league, the Young Men's Christian association, evangelical alliances, social reform societies—all had delegates, noted and representative, present, who were enthusiastic over the whole scheme.

It is said that the idea was suggested by the "forward movement" of the Methodist church, which has set out to convert 3,000,000 souls and raise $20,000,000 before Jan. 1, 1902.

It is said that the dying hopes of the late evangelist, D. L. Moody, had something to do with suggesting the idea. But the scheme was first put into practical form by William Philipps Hall, the noted layman, who is generally known as the "business man's evangelist."

Mr. Hall communicated with a number of representative clergymen. The subject was generally discussed among them. They were next invited to express an opinion of the idea and be present at a private conference to be held Monday, Dec. 3, in New York city. More than 100 of these letters were sent out. Answers promising hearty co-operation was received from nearly every letter, and at the conference arrangements were made for carrying the plans into execution.

FIENDS CREMATED A MAN.

Saturated His Clothing With Turpentine, Set It Afire and Then Watched Him Burn.

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 4.—Screams of agony brought policemen to a saloon in East Dallas. Seated in a chair, unable to move, was a man whose garments were a mass of flames. The officers saw Eugene Faulkner and J. W. Chapman were standing behind the bar smoking cigars and watching the unfortunate man who was being roasted to death.

"Bring some water here, quick," shouted an officer.

"Get it yourself," the policemen declare, one of the men said.

"Let him die. What's the use of worrying over him?"

One of the officers took off his coat and with it beat out the fire. The man was sent to the city hospital, where he died later. Soon after his arrival at the hospital the two men were brought before him for identification, when it was discovered that his eyes had been destroyed. He was Pate Bain, for many years a constable in this county. It is claimed by the officers that Bain was drugged and as he reclined in a chair unconscious a quantity of turpentine was poured over him and a match applied.

The two suspects were put in the city jail and guarded by deputies. A mob of 15 or 20 men called at the jail and demanded the prisoners of the jailer. The jailer swore that they were not in his possession; that they had been taken to Fort Worth.

"Well," said the leader of the mob, "if we catch them we will burn them."

Faulkner and Chapman refuse to talk and no motive is known for the crime.

THE PALACE WAS DESTROYED.

American Government Buildings Wrecked in Guam—Number of People Killed.

Manila, Dec. 4.—Rear Admiral Remy in his official reports of the recent typhoon, which visited the island of Guam, reports that the storm was the severest in 40 years. The palace at Agaña and the government buildings were unroofed and wrecked. The sea reached the plaza.

Many of the homeless sought refuge in the school and jail. No one is reported to have been killed at Agaña, but the mortality caused by the recent epidemic of the grip has been much increased by exposure, most of the dwellings having been destroyed.

The town of Marajan was leveled and 23 persons were killed. Several persons were killed in various small villages and several small coasters are missing. No reports have been received from some localities. Coconut trees and all crops are destroyed and food is being distributed to the sufferers. Admiral Remy has ordered the Arethusa from Cavite with food supplies. Flour, corn and meat are needed, and it is suggested that donations be sent from the United States. The Brutus, from Cavite, and the Solace, from San Francisco, due at recently, will relieve immediate needs.

Sounding of the Yosemite upon the reef broke and twisted her propeller and she was abandoned and sank November 16. The flagship Newark has gone to investigate the disaster.

FOREIGN ENVOYS TO MEET.

All Have Heard From Their Governments—Conference May Futile.

Pekin, Dec. 4.—All the foreign envoys have now heard from their governments regarding the joint note to the Chinese plenipotentiaries, and a meeting will be held today. The envoys are not communicative, but enough is known with reference to the objections of different governments to make it doubtful that the meeting will have a satisfactory conclusion.

Prince Ching and Li Hung Chang both say that they are anxiously awaiting the demands of the powers. They declare that China desires peace at any price commensurate with the dignity of an independent nation, but they point out that so long as a large foreign army occupies the province of Chi Li the problem will be harder to solve.

The missionaries and others who went through the siege protest bitterly against any suggestion of leniency. They urge particularly that those who are high in office and who were really responsible for the outrages to foreigners should be executed; and they insist also that a sufficient force should be kept in China to guarantee order and to keep foreigners independent of the Chinese, declaring that if this is not done a repetition of the troubles is inevitable.

PARLIAMENT WAS OPENED

Members Search Underground Chambers, as Per Old Custom—Speaker Elected.

London, Dec. 4.—The opening of the initial session of the Fifteenth Parliament of Queen Victoria occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon. It was a formal affair and of little public interest. A small crowd assembled to see the beefeaters, who carried out the usual search for possible conspirators in the vaults beneath the Houses of Parliament, with the customary ceremonial, and with the customary result. There was likewise the usual competition of zealous members of Parliament to be first on the scene and J. O. McDona, Conservative member for the Rotherhithe division of Southwark, easily secured the choice of seats, arriving in the House at midnight.

Mr. Balfour, the Government leader in the House and First Lord of the Treasury, and Mr. Chamberlain, the Secretary of State for the Colonies, arrived promptly at 2 o'clock and were cordially welcomed. Sir William Vernon Harcourt and Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the Liberal leader in the House, were similarly greeted from the opposition benches.

General Sir Michael Biddulph, the gentleman usher of the Black Rod, appeared a few minutes later and summoned the members to the Upper House to hear the reading of the Queen's commission directing the election of a Speaker. There was no opposition to the re-election of William Court Gully for a third term.

But few people attended the opening of the House of Lords. The body was in session but a few minutes.

EX-CADET BOOZ DIED.

Superintendent Mills Denied He Was a Victim of Hazing.

Philadelphia, Dec. 4.—Oscar L. Booz, the former cadet at West Point military academy, who had been lying at the point of death at his home in Bristol, Pa., suffering from injuries which his parents claim were the result of hazing at the academy over a year ago, died in agony. The cause of death was said to be throat consumption.

West Point, Dec. 4.—Superintendent Mills denies the story of the hazing of Booz.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Wheat was fairly active and firm on bullish statistics, higher cables and a reduction in the estimated Argentine surplus, anuary closing 1/2c higher. May corn closed 1/2c up and May oats 1/4c improved. Provisions at the close were but little changed from Saturday.

AFRAID OF BEING KISSED.

Clever Story of a Man, a Maid and an Iron Kettle.

Here is an ingenious Circassian story: A man was walking along one road and a woman along another. The roads finally united, and the man and the woman, reaching the junction at the same time, went on from there together. The man was carrying a large iron kettle on his back. In one hand he held by the leg a live chicken, in the other a cane, and he was leading a goat. Just as they were coming to a deep, dark ravine the woman said to the man:

"I am afraid to go through that dark ravine with you. It is a lonely place, and you might overpower me and kiss me by force."

"If you are afraid of that," said the man, "you shouldn't have walked with me at all. How can I possibly overcome you and kiss you by force when I have this great iron kettle on my back, a cane in one hand and a live chicken in the other and am leading a goat? I might as well be tied hand and foot."

"Yes," replied the woman, "but if you should stick your cane in the ground and tie the goat to it and turn the kettle bottom side up and put the chicken under it, then you might wickedly kiss me in spite of my resistance."

"Success to thy ingenuity, O woman!" said the man to himself. "I should never have thought of this expedient." And when they came to the ravine he stuck his cane into the ground and tied the goat to it, gave the chicken to the woman, saying, "Hold it while I cut some grass for the goat," and then, lowering the kettle from his shoulders, he wickedly kissed the woman, as she was afraid he would.—Stray Stories.

THE UNTOLD.

Why Mrs. Cavil Failed to Be Informed by Her Husband.

"I didn't tell you, did I, Mildred," said Mr. Cavil to his wife, "that I saw your sister Jane down town this day week?"

"No, you didn't, Charles Augustus Cavil," replied Mrs. Cavil. "Why didn't you?"

"Well, you see"—

"Yes, I see. You meet the only sister I have in the world, and instead of coming straight home and telling me about it the same day, as any respectable husband would have done, you keep the matter secret a whole week and then ask carelessly if you have mentioned the fact that you saw her."

"But, my dear"—

"Don't but me, Charles Augustus Cavil. I have no doubt that she sent me a message by you, and you not only failed to deliver it, but by this time you have forgotten what it was about. Tell me if this isn't the case."

"My dear, it was this way"—

"Don't tell me it was that way, Charles Augustus Cavil. I know exactly how it was. You simply didn't care a straw whether I knew that you had seen Sister Jane or not or you would not have waited a whole week to tell me you had seen her."

"But I didn't say I saw her," Mr. Cavil said at length.

"Then I'd like to know what you did say, Charles Augustus Cavil."

"I asked you if I told you that I saw her," explained Mr. Cavil.

"Well, why didn't you tell me?"

"The reason I didn't tell you was because I didn't see her; that's all."

Mrs. Cavil gasped and was speechless.—Boston Bazar.

A Trick of Indian Thieves.

In some of the thieves' schools in India a regular course of training is gone through in the art of "pouching," or concealing articles of value in the throat. The Englishman, a newspaper published in Calcutta, thus describes the process:

"At first a small piece of lead, attached to a thread, is swallowed and guided by the action of the tongue to the orifice of the sac in the throat. As soon as this has been thoroughly learned the lead is coated with lime. This eats into the sac and enlarges it. The size of the article to be pouches is gradually increased until it is said that many of the Indian thieves can pouch 8 or 10 rupees at once."—Toronto Mail and Empire.

SHIP SUBSIDY BILL.

It Will Displace Spooner Subsidy Bill.

Senator Frye May Take Up the Ship Bill Today—Hay-Pouncefote Treaty Next In Importance—Army Measure to Displace Both Whenever It Is Reported.

Washington, Dec. 4.—The Republican senatorial committee on order of business decided that the ship subsidy bill should displace the Spooner Philippine bill as the unfinished business. It also considered at the same time the disposition of the Hay-Pouncefote treaty and decided that that question should receive alternate attention with the shipping bill. The arrangement provides that the shipping bill shall have preference, but that when no one is prepared to make a speech on it the senate shall go into executive session for the consideration of the treaty.

In accordance with this understanding Senator Frye, at the first opportunity today, likely will move to take up the bill, and if this motion prevails, as it probably will, the effect will be to displace the Spooner bill, which there is no disposition at this time to press. Senator Frye probably will make a speech. It is not expected that any other senator will be prepared to proceed on the subsidy measure, and in that event Senator Lodge, of the committee on foreign relations, who will have charge of the treaty, probably will move an executive session in order to consider the treaty.

The arrangement further provides that if the army bill reaches the senate prior to the disposal of the shipping bill or the treaty, either or both of these may be displaced temporarily in order to permit the prompt consideration of that measure, which is considered to be of more pressing importance than either of the other questions. The same understanding prevails regarding the appropriation bills.

Senator Morgan's Nicaraguan canal bill received some consideration at the hands of the committee on order of business. The members of the committee apparently consider that the ratification of the treaty is a necessary preliminary to the passage of the canal bill, and the present disposition is to contend for that order of precedence.

Some of the members who had talked with Democratic senators expressed the opinion that there would be no effort to prevent this legislation by factions' opposition, though they expect a number of speeches against it.

Senator Lodge was called into the conference for the purpose of consultation concerning the treaty. He stated that he would be prepared to proceed with it at any time, and that he was anxious to have it disposed of as early a day as possible.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Representative Littlefield, of Maine, from the judiciary committee of the house, presented a favorable report on what is known as "the conspiracy" bill, limiting the use of restraining orders and injunctions in disputes between employer and employee in places under federal control.

The report favors two changes in the bill. One strikes out the provision which would have the effect of excepting combinations in trade disputes from the operations of the Sherman anti-trust law. The other amends the bill so it will not cover instances of threats to injure persons or property, business or occupation, or overt acts of interference with the rights of others. Otherwise the bill is preserved in limiting the scope of injunctions.

EVANGELIZE NATION.

Interdenominational Movement Under Way.

A DYING HOPE OF REV. MOODY.

The Idea Also Suggested by the Forward Movement of the Methodist Church—Put Into Practical Form by Evangelist Hall—Conference Held.

New York, Dec. 4.—An interdenominational movement to celebrate the beginning of the twentieth century by a systematic effort to evangelize the nation through the medium of existing churches and church societies, was agreed upon in a secret conference of representative religious workers, which met at the Young Men's Christian association building.

Mr. Hall communicated with a number of representative clergymen. The subject was generally discussed among them. They were next invited to express an opinion of the idea and be present at a private conference to be held Monday, Dec. 3, in New York city. More than 100 of these letters were sent out. Answers promising hearty co-operation was received from nearly every letter, and at the conference arrangements were made for carrying the plans into execution.

THE PALACE WAS DESTROYED.

American Government Buildings Wrecked In Guam—Number of People Killed.

Manila, Dec. 4.—Rear Admiral Remy in his official reports of the recent typhoon, which visited the island of Guam, reports that the storm was the severest in 40 years. The palace at Aganta and the government buildings were unroofed and wrecked. The sea reached the plaza.

Many of the homeless sought refuge in the school and jail. No one is reported to have been killed at Aganta, but the mortality caused by the recent epidemic of the grip has been much increased by exposure, most of the dwellings having been destroyed.

The town of Marajan was leveled and 23 persons were killed. Several persons were killed in various small villages and several small coasters are missing. No reports have been received from some localities. Coconut trees and all crops are destroyed and food is being distributed to the sufferers. Admiral Remy has ordered the Arethusa from Cavite with food supplies. Flour, corn and meat are needed, and it is suggested that donations be sent from the United States. The Brutus, from Cavite, and the Solace, from San Francisco, due at recently, will relieve immediate needs.

Founding of the Yosemite upon the reef broke and twisted her propeller and she was abandoned and sank November 16. The flagship Newark has gone to investigate the disaster.

FOREIGN ENVOYS TO MEET.

All Have Heard From Their Governments—Conference May Be Futile.

Pekin, Dec. 4.—All the foreign envoys have now heard from their governments regarding the joint note to the Chinese plenipotentiaries, and a meeting will be held today. The envoys are not communicative, but enough is known with reference to the objections of different governments to make it doubtful that the meeting will have a satisfactory conclusion.

Prince Ching and Li Hung Chang both say that they are anxiously awaiting the demands of the powers. They declare that China desires peace at any price commensurate with the dignity of an independent nation, but they point out that so long as a large foreign army occupies the province of Chi Li the problem will be harder to solve.

The missionaries and others who went through the siege protest bitterly against any suggestion of leniency. They urge particularly that those who are high in office and who were really responsible for the outrages to foreigners should be executed; and they insist also that a sufficient force should be kept in China to guarantee order and to keep foreigners independent of the Chinese, declaring that if this is not done a repetition of the troubles is inevitable.

PARLIAMENT WAS OPENED

Members Search Underground Chambers, as Per Old Custom—Speaker Elected.

London, Dec. 4.—The opening of the initial session of the Fifteenth Parliament of Queen Victoria occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon. It was a formal affair and of little public interest. A small crowd assembled to see the beefeaters, who carried out the usual search for possible conspirators in the vaults beneath the Houses of Parliament, with the customary ceremonial, and with the customary result. There was likewise the usual competition of zealous members of Parliament to be first on the scene and J. O. McDona, Conservative member for the Rotherhithe division of Southwark, easily secured the choice of seats, arriving in the House at midnight.

Mr. Balfour, the Government leader in the House and First Lord of the Treasury, and Mr. Chamberlain, the Secretary of State for the Colonies, arrived promptly at 2 o'clock and were cordially welcomed. Sir William Vernon Harcourt and Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the Liberal leader in the House, were similarly greeted from the opposition benches.

General Sir Michael Biddulph, the gentleman usher of the Black Rod, appeared a few minutes later and summoned the members to the Upper House to hear the reading of the Queen's commission directing the election of a Speaker. There was no opposition to the re-election of William Court Gully for a third term.

But few people attended the opening of the House of Lords. The body was in session but a few minutes.

EX-CADET BOOZ DIED.

Superintendent Mills Denied He Was a Victim of Hazing.

Philadelphia, Dec. 4.—Oscar L. Booz, the former cadet at West Point military academy, who had been lying at the point of death at his home in Bristol, Pa., suffering from injuries which his parents claim were the result of hazing at the academy over a year ago, died in agony. The cause of death was said to be throat consumption.

West Point, Dec. 4.—Superintendent Mills denies the story of the hazing of Booz.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Wheat was fairly active and firm on bullish statistics, higher cables and a reduction in the estimated Argentine surplus, anuary closing 1/2c higher. May corn closed 1/2c up and May oats 1/4c improved. Provisions at the close were but little changed from Saturday.

AFRAID OF BEING KISSED.

Clever Story of a Man, a Maid and an Iron Kettle.

Here is an ingenious Circassian story: A man was walking along one road and a woman along another. The roads finally united, and the man and the woman, reaching the junction at the same time, went on from there together. The man was carrying a large iron kettle on his back. In one hand he held by the leg a live chicken, in the other a cane, and he was leading a goat. Just as they were coming to a deep, dark ravine the woman said to the man:

"I am afraid to go through that dark ravine with you. It is a lonely place, and you might overpower me and kiss me by force."

"If you are afraid of that," said the man, "you shouldn't have walked with me at all. How can I possibly overcome you and kiss you by force when I have this great iron kettle on my back, a cane in one hand and a live chicken in the other and am leading a goat? I might as well be tied hand and foot."

"Yes," replied the woman, "but if you should stick your cane in the ground and tie the goat to it and turn the kettle bottom side up and put the chicken under it, then you might wickedly kiss me in spite of my resistance."

"Success to thy ingenuity, O woman!" said the man to himself. "I should never have thought of this expedient." And when they came to the ravine he stuck his cane into the ground and tied the goat to it, gave the chicken to the woman, saying, "Hold it while I cut some grass for the goat," and then, lowering the kettle from his shoulders, he wickedly kissed the woman, as she was afraid he would.—Stray Stories.

THE UNTOLD.

Why Mrs. Cavil Failed to Be Informed by Her Husband.

"I didn't tell you, did I, Mildred," said Mr. Cavil to his wife, "that I saw your sister Jane down town this day week?"

"No, you didn't, Charles Augustus Cavil," replied Mrs. Cavil. "Why didn't you?"

"Well, you see—"

"Yes, I see. You meet the only sister I have in the world, and instead of coming straight home and telling me about it the same day, as any respectable husband would have done, you keep the matter secret a whole week and then ask carelessly if you have mentioned the fact that you saw her."

"But, my dear—"

"Don't but me, Charles Augustus Cavil. I have no doubt that she sent me a message by you, and you not only failed to deliver it, but by this time you have forgotten what it was about. Tell me if this isn't the case."

"My dear, it was this way—"

"Don't tell me it was that way, Charles Augustus Cavil. I know exactly how it was. You simply didn't care a straw whether I knew that you had seen Sister Jane or not or you would not have waited a whole week to tell me you had seen her."

"But I didn't say I saw her," Mr. Cavil said at length.

"Then I'd like to know what you did say, Charles Augustus Cavil."

"I asked you if I told you that I saw her," explained Mr. Cavil.

"Well, why didn't you tell me?"

"The reason I didn't tell you was because I didn't see her; that's all."

Mrs. Cavil gasped and was speechless.—Boston Bazar.

A Trick of Indian Thieves.

In some of the thieves' schools in India a regular course of training is gone through in the art of "pouching," or concealing articles of value in the throat. The Englishman, a newspaper published in Calcutta, thus describes the process:

"At first a small piece of lead, attached to a thread, is swallowed and guided by the action of the tongue to the orifice of the sac in the throat. As soon as this has been thoroughly learned the lead is coated with lime. This eats into the sac and enlarges it. The size of the article to be pouches is gradually increased until it is said that many of the Indian thieves can pouch 8 or 10 rupees at once."—Toronto Mail and Empire.

SHIP SUBSIDY BILL.

It Will Displace Spooner Subsidy Bill.

Senator Frye May Take Up the Ship Bill Today—Hay-Pauncefote Treaty Next In Importance—Army Measure to Displace Both Whenever It Is Reported.

Washington, Dec. 4.—The Republican senatorial committee on order of business decided that the ship subsidy bill should displace the Spooner Philippine bill as the unfinished business. It also considered at the same time the disposition of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty and decided that that question should receive alternate attention with the shipping bill. The arrangement provides that the shipping bill shall have preference, but that when no one is prepared to make a speech on it the senate shall go into executive session for the consideration of the treaty.

In accordance with this understanding Senator Frye, at the first opportunity today, likely will move to take up the bill, and if this motion prevails, as it probably will, the effect will be to displace the Spooner bill, which there is no disposition at this time to press. Senator Frye probably will make a speech. It is not expected that any other senator will be prepared to proceed on the subsidy measure, and in that event Senator Lodge, of the committee on foreign relations, who will have charge of the treaty, probably will move an executive session in order to consider the treaty.

The arrangement further provides that if the army bill reaches the senate prior to the disposal of the shipping bill or the treaty, either or both of these may be displaced temporarily in order to permit the prompt consideration of that measure, which is considered to be of more pressing importance than either of the other questions. The same understanding prevails regarding the appropriation bills.

Senator Morgan's Nicaraguan canal bill received some consideration at the hands of the committee on order of business. The members of the committee apparently consider that the ratification of the treaty is a necessary preliminary to the passage of the canal bill, and the present disposition is to contend for that order of precedence.

Some of the members who had talked with Democratic senators expressed the opinion that there would be no effort to prevent this legislation by factious opposition, though they expect a number of speeches against it.

Senator Lodge was called into the conference for the purpose of consultation concerning the treaty. He stated that he would be prepared to proceed with it at any time, and that he was anxious to have it disposed of as early a day as possible.

LIMITING INJUNCTIONS.

Bill Reported to the House With Important Amendments.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Representative Littlefield, of Maine, from the judiciary committee of the house, presented a favorable report on what is known as "the conspiracy" bill, limiting the use of restraining orders and injunctions in disputes between employer and employee in places under federal control.

The report favors two changes in the bill. One strikes out the provision which would have the effect of excepting combinations in trade disputes from the operations of the Sherman anti-trust law. The other amends the bill so it will not cover instances of threats to injure persons or property, business or occupation, or overt acts of interference with the rights of others. Otherwise the bill is preserved in limiting the scope of injunctions.

HONORED THE DEAD.

House Organized, Heard Message and Then Adjourned.

Washington, Dec. 4.—The opening of the session in the house was brilliant, but not exciting. There were the usual throngs in the galleries and the usual display of floral pieces on the floor, but the proceedings were purely formal, consisting of the rapping to order by the speaker, prayer by the chaplain, the roll call of members, the appointment of the formal committees to wait on the president and the reception and reading of the president's message.

The deaths of the late Representatives Daly, of New Jersey, and Hoffer, of Delaware, and Senator Davis, of Minnesota, and Gear, of Iowa, were announced, and as a further mark of respect to their memories the house adjourned until today.

OUT OF RESPECT FOR THE DEAD.

Senate Did Little Business at First Session.

Washington, Dec. 4.—In the senate the work of the short session of the fifty-sixth congress was successfully launched.

Aside from the reading of the president's message and the administration of the oath of office to William B. Dillingham, the new senator from Vermont, who succeeds the late Justin S. Morrill, no business was transacted, out of respect to the memory of Senators Davis and Gear.

THE DEMOCRATS DIFFERED.

Their Caucus Was Unable to Agree Regarding Army Reorganization.

Washington, Dec. 4.—A caucus of the Democratic members of the house was held in the hall of the house at the close of the session to consider the course to be taken on army legislation. Representative Hay, of Virginia, a member of the military committee, explained the bill proposed by Secretary Root and urged the desirability of not legislating until the course of the government as to the Philippines had been more definitely determined. He proposed a resolution that the law now in existence as to the army be continued for two years.

Representatives Richardson, Bailey, Carmack, Newlands, Cox and others made speeches, showing considerable diversity of opinion as to what should be done. Mr. Hay finally withdrew his resolution, and the caucus adjourned without action.

New York Man Arranged to Have Jugular Vein Severed After Death.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Lest he be buried alive Henry G. Moore left $100 in his will for the person who would cut his jugular vein immediately after his death and $500 for the person who would see that his body was properly cremated.

The will was filed for probate in the Surrogate's office today. Mr. Moore died in London recently. He lived in this city for many years.

EVANGELIZE NATION.

Interdenominational Movement Under Way.

A DYING HOPE OF REV. MOODY.

The Idea Also Suggested by the Forward Movement of the Methodist Church—Put Into Practical Form by Evangelist Hall—Conference Held.

New York, Dec. 4.—An inter-denominational movement to celebrate the beginning of the twentieth century by a systematic effort to evangelize the nation through the medium of existing churches and church societies, was agreed upon in a secret conference of representative religious workers, which met at the Young Men's Christian association building.

Every prominent religious society was represented. President Francis E. Clark, of the International Christian Endeavor society, came from Boston to attend the conference. Mrs. Margaret Bottoms was there for the King's Daughters.

The Baptist Young People's union, the Epworth league, the Young Men's Christian association, evangelical alliances, social reform societies—all had delegates, noted and representative, present, who were enthusiastic over the whole scheme.

It is said that the idea was suggested by the "forward movement" of the Methodist church, which has set out to convert 3,000,000 souls and raise $20,000,000 before Jan. 1, 1902.

It is said that the dying hopes of the late evangelist, D. L. Moody, had something to do with suggesting the idea. But the scheme was first put into practical form by William Philipps Hall, the noted layman, who is generally known as the "business man's evangelist."

Mr. Hall communicated with a number of representative clergymen. The subject was generally discussed among them. They were next invited to express an opinion of the idea and be present at a private conference to be held Monday, Dec. 3, in New York city. More than 100 of these letters were sent out. Answers promising hearty co-operation were received from nearly every letter, and at the conference arrangements were made for carrying the plans into execution.

FIENDS CREMATED A MAN.

Saturated His Clothing With Turpentine, Set It Afire and Then Watched Him Burn.

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 4.—Screams of agony brought policemen to a saloon in East Dallas. Seated in a chair, unable to move, was a man whose garments were a mass of flames. The officers say Eugene Faulkner and J. W. Chapman were standing behind the bar smoking cigars and watching the unfortunate man who was being roasted to death.

"Bring some water here, quick," shouted an officer.

"Get it yourself," the policemen declare, one of the men said.

"Let him die. What's the use of worrying over him?"

One of the officers took off his coat and with it beat out the fire. The man was sent to the city hospital, where he died later. Soon after his arrival at the hospital the two men were brought before him for identification, when it was discovered that his eyes had been destroyed. He was Pate Bain, for many years a constable in this county. It is claimed by the officers that Bain was drugged and as he reclined in a chair unconscious a quantity of turpentine was poured over him and a match applied.

The two suspects were put in the city jail and guarded by deputies. A mob of 15 or 20 men called at the jail and demanded the prisoners of the jailer. The jailer swore that they were not in his possession; that they had been taken to Fort Worth.

"Well," said the leader of the mob, "if we catch them we will burn them."

Faulkner and Chapman refuse to talk and no motive is known for the crime.

Mrs. Augbeck, Milwaukee, thrown against seat; internally injured; may die.

Michael McGregor, severely burned.

FLAG ON THE TOMBS

Four Companies of the Kaiser's Troops Reported to Be in Danger—Relief Expeditions Are Doing No Good.

Berlin, Dec. 4.—A dispatch from Field Marshal von Waldersee, sent from Peking December 1, says that, after hoisting the German flag at the Ming tombs and punishing several neighboring villages for the murder of Christians, the late Colonel York's detachment, commanded by General Gayl, returned to Peking in four columns. The Kalgan expedition, the dispatch says, was very successful. Several thousand Chinese regulars, under the command of two Generals, were driven in wild flight from the province of Chihli to Shansi.

Tien-Tsin, Dec. 3.—Four companies of German troops are reported to be seriously menaced 35 miles west of Pao-Ting-Fu. Eight companies of French troops, with three days' rations, have left to go to their relief.

It is by the imperative order of the Czar that the Russians are handing over the Shan-Hai-Kwan railroad to the Germans. The necessary documents were signed this morning.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 3.—Kwan-Chang, an attaché of the Chinese legation here, in a formal interview to-day, said: "It is futile for Field Marshal Waldersee to send into the interior expeditions the presence of which only irritates the natives and increases their animosity toward the Europeans. The Emperor will not return to Peking as long as foreign troops, beyond the legation guards, are there. Should it be necessary the Emperor will fly farther than Sian-Fu."

INTRODUCED TO THE PRINCE

Canadian Troops Spent Another Pleasant Day in London—Soldiers Inspected.

London, Dec. 4.—The returning members of the Royal Canadian Regiment and the Composite Regiment of the Household Cavalry were inspected this afternoon by the Prince of Wales at the Albany street barracks. The Princess of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of York, the Duke of Cambridge, Field Marshal Lord Wolsey, General Sir Evelyn Wood, the Adjutant General to the forces and the Secretary of State for War, William St. John Broderick, were among those present and participating in the inspection.

The Canadian officers were introduced to the Prince of Wales, who, in a brief speech, heartily welcomed them to England. He said it had been great satisfaction to him to hear how gallantly they had fought and he mourned with them the loss of so many of their brave comrades. The Prince also said he remembered with the greatest pleasure his visit to Canada.

A Woman Released.

Cleveland, Dec. 4.—Mrs. Grace Robinson, arrested here Saturday charged with being a fugitive from justice at Libby, Mont., was released on a telegram from the sheriff of Flathead county, Montana. It was alleged that she had aken $50,000 worth of bonds belonging to her husband and fled.

President's Utterances as to Trusts Had Some Effect on the Steel and Iron Stocks.

New York, Dec. 4.—Speculative activity continued rather depressed in stocks Tuesday. The president's message was made a device by professional traders to effect some movement in the steel stocks. That is to say, alarmist rumors were current before his appearance on the stand taken on the "trust" question. The stocks proven vulnerable to the bear attack, and the decline brought out considerable offerings of long stock, effecting a decline at one time in Tennessee Coal of 4 1/4 and in Steel and Wire of 3 3/4. These were the weakest stocks and they rallied on short covering 1 1/4 and 1 1/2 respectively. On the other hand, Sugar was fairly buoyant, rising at one time 3 1/2 and closing with a net gain of 2 1/2. In the outside market also Standard Oil sold at 810, leaving all previous records far behind it. The upward rush of over six points in Pacific Mail was made at the opening and was prompted by the general concurrence in the views reported from the party leaders in Washington as to the prominent place given by the ship subsidy bill in the party program for the session. There was quite a large short interest caused in the stock, which emphasized the rise. The same was true of Sugar, which recovered its Sturday loss with the approach of the dividend meeting. The dividend meeting, however, was postponed from Monday and the stock became quiet. The railroad list was extremely irregular. Baltimore and Ohio suffered sharply on account of the legal proceedings to enjoin the payment of the dividend on the common stock, pending the decision of the rights of the preferred stock to share equally with the common stock in dividends over 4 per cent. There were also conspicuous stocks in the railroad list which gained sharply, including Pennsylvania as the leader. The fact that neither the gains nor the losses persisted showed the professional character of the dealings. Notwithstanding the reduced activity there was a sharp hardening in the call money rate to 6 per cent late in the day, at which figure it required a million dollars to meet the needs of belated borrowers, who had held out for better terms.

WIDE OPERATIONS OF ARMY.

Secretary Root in His Report Covered Them.

Washington, Dec. 4.—The annual report of Secretary Root is of more than usual interest, owing to its wide scope and the fact that it treats of subjects of such importance as the Philippine insurrection, the Chinese campaign, the developments in Cuba and Porto Rico, and finally with the subject of army reorganization.

One idea of what the army has been doing in the field and at home is conveyed by the secretary's statement that its operations included the prosecution of the war for the apprehension of the Philippine insurrection, and the establishment of a government in the Philippines; the rescue of the foreign ministers in Peking; the preservation of the relief of distress in Alaska, and the construction of roads and telegraphs there; the conduct of the government of Porto Rico, until May 1 last; the conduct of the government of Cuba; prosecution of river and harbor works; the construction of sea coast fortifications; the barristering and maintaining of military posts and fortifications; the discharge of about one-third of the army and the re-enlistment of soldiers to take their place, and the distribution of supplies to the scattered forces.

Secretary Root said the military requirements in the Philippines may be summed up as follows:

For the immediate future about 60,000 men. This number may be progressively decreased by the gradual disappearance of all insurrection and by the restoration of order and by the substitution of native troops, costing less than half to support.

THE WEATHER.

Ohio—Rain today. Tomorrow colder and partly cloudy; probably snow flurries near the lakes; fresh south to west winds.

Western Pennsylvania—Rain today. Tomorrow rain or snow, with colder in northern portion; fresh south to west winds.

West Virginia—Rain today. Tomorrow colder and fair, except probably snow in the mountain districts; fresh south to west winds.

In Grandma's Day.

Women were straight and strong. They could walk or work side by side with the men of the family. They lived under healthier conditions; there was more simplicity and less strain. To-day it's different. The woman has all the care of the house and the wear of motherhood with duties superadded which were never dreamed of in Grandma's day. As a natural result she's worn out when she ought to be in the full beauty of mature womanhood. Women who would preserve their health and strength should guard the delicate womanly organs. When these are diseased the whole body suffers loss of strength and beauty. Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the diseases that weaken women. Inflammation, ulceration and female weakness promptly yield to the power of this great remedy.

"I had been a great sufferer from female weakness for about two years," writes Mrs. Emma Richardson, of Goss, Wayne Co., Ky. "Could not do my work part of the time. I took four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and felt as well as I ever did."

A Dogfight in a Church.

The Westminster Budget says that it was once usual for highland shepherds to take their dogs to church and leave them outside the pews. Two shepherds at enmity sat on opposite sides of the aisle one Sunday. Soon after the sermon began the dogs, one a collie and the other not, seemed to enter into their masters' quarrel. One tender of the flock and then the other egged on his animal, and each faithful dog obeyed his master. The people at last craned their necks over the pews, and when the dogs actually fought not a few of the congregation were standing up.

The minister's patience was ultimately exhausted, and so he called to his "hearers" and said, "Ah, weel, my britherin, I see ye are more interested in the dogfight than in my sermon, and so I'll close the buik—and I'll bet half a crown on the collie!"

FLAG ON THE TOMBS

Four Companies of the Kaiser's Troops Reported to Be in Danger—Relief Hurrying to Them—Punitive Expeditions Are Doing No Good.

Berlin, Dec. 4.—A dispatch from Field Marshal von Waldersee, sent from Peking December 1, says that, after hoisting the German flag at the Ming tombs and punishing several neighboring villages for the murder of Christians, the late Colonel York's detachment, commanded by General Gayl, returned to Peking in four columns. The Kalgan expedition, the dispatch says, was very successful. Several thousand Chinese regulars, under the command of two Generals, were driven in wild flight from the province of Chihli to Shansi.

Tien-Tsin, Dec. 3.—Four companies of German troops are reported to be seriously menaced 35 miles west of Pao-Ting-Fu. Eight companies of French troops, with three days' rations, have left to go to their relief.

It is by the imperative order of the Czar that the Russians are handing over the Shan-Hai-Kwan railroad to the Germans. The necessary documents were signed this morning.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 3.—Kwan-Chang, an attaché of the Chinese legation here, in a formal interview to-day, said: "It is futile for Field Marshal Waldersee to send into the interior expeditions the presence of which only irritates the natives and increases their animosity toward the Europeans. The Emperor will not return to Peking as long as foreign troops, beyond the legation guards, are there. Should it be necessary the Emperor will fly farther than Sian-Fu."

INTRODUCED TO THE PRINCE

Canadian Troops Spent Another Pleasant Day in London—Soldiers Inspected.

London, Dec. 4.—The returning members of the Royal Canadian Regiment and the Composite Regiment of the Household Cavalry were inspected this afternoon by the Prince of Wales at the Albany street barracks. The Princess of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of York, the Duke of Cambridge, Field Marshal Lord Wolsley, General Sir Evelyn Wood, the Adjutant General to the forces and the Secretary of State for War, William St. John Broderick, were among those present and participating in the inspection.

The Canadian officers were introduced to the Prince of Wales, who, in a brief speech, heartily welcomed them to England. He said it had been great satisfaction to him to hear how gallantly they had fought and he mourned with them the loss of so many of their brave comrades. The Prince also said he remembered with the greatest pleasure his visit to Canada.

In Grandma's Day,

Women were straight and strong. They could walk or work side by side with the men of the family. They lived under healthier conditions;

there was more simplicity and less strain. To-day it's different. The woman has all the care of the house and the wear of motherhood with duties superadded which were never dreamed of in Grandma's day. As a natural result she's worn out when she ought to be in the full beauty of mature womanhood. Women who would preserve their health and strength should guard the delicate womanly organs. When these are diseased the whole body suffers loss of strength and beauty. Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the diseases that weaken women. Inflammation, ulceration and female weakness promptly yield to the power of this great remedy.

"I had been a great sufferer from female weakness for about two years," writes Mrs. Emma Richardson, of Goss, Wayne Co., Ky. "Could not do my work part of the time. I took four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and felt as well as I ever did."

A Dogfight in Church.

The Westminster Budget says that it was once usual for highland shepherds to take their dogs to church and leave them outside the pews. Two shepherds at enmity sat on opposite sides of the aisle one Sunday. Soon after the sermon began the dogs, one a collie and the other not, seemed to enter into their masters' quarrel. One tender of the flock and then the other egged on his animal, and each faithful dog obeyed his master. The people at last craned their necks over the pews, and when the dogs actually fought not a few of the congregation were standing up.

The minister's patience was ultimately exhausted, and so he called to his "hearers" and said, "Ah, weel, my britherin, I see ye are more interested in the dogfight than in my sermon, and so I'll close the bulke—and I'll bet half a crown on the collie!"

An English authority has estimated that if all the inhabitants of the British isles should decide to attend church on a given Sunday 25,000,000 would be crowded out for lack of seating room in the churches.

THE GALLUP FAMILY.

AN EVENING OF LAMENTATIONS BY THE AILING WIFE.

She Knew Her Time For Departure For the Other World Had Come, and She Was Anxious to Become an Angel, but There Were Drawbacks.

[Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.]

Mr. Gallup had finished his supper, removed his coat and shoes and sat down in the rocking chair to read the copy of The Chemung County Gazette he had brought home from the post-office when Mrs. Gallup dropped down on the lounge with a sigh and began:

"Samuel, if you could spare a dyin' woman three or four minits of your time I should like to talk to you. I know you don't like to be bothered when you are readin', and I wouldn't say a word if it was only a bile on my leg or one of my back aches, but it's more serious than that, Samuel—fur more serious."

Mr. Gallup stretched his legs out to their fullest extent and made his toes crack, but he never looked up from his paper.

"I don't want to give you no sudden shock," continued Mrs. Gallup as the tears began to stream down her cheeks and her nose to twitch, "but it's my duty to tell you, so you kin prepare yourself. Samuel, you'll be a widow before Saturday night! Tonight is Tuesday night. Before sundown on Saturday night the funeral will be over, I'll be an angel, and you'll be free to go out somewhere every evenin' and play checkers. Do you hear me, Samuel?"

Mr. Gallup may or may not have heard her, but if he did he paid not the slightest attention.

"Yes; I've got my call to go," she resumed as she wiped her eyes on her apron. "I've had rheumatiz, fever, consumption and heart disease, and many and many a time I've expected to go, but I have never felt like this before. My heart goes tunk, tunk, tunk, my lungs seem to be hitchin' around, and now and then my breath shuts off on me the same as if I had got caught in a hole in the fence. Mrs. Watkins was took this very way before she died, and so was Mr. Comfort. It may come tonight, or it may be delayed till tomorrow, but within a day or two I'll be an angel. You won't blame me fur dyin', will you, Samuel?"

"SPARE A DYIN' WOMAN THREE OR FOUR MINITS."

Mr. Gallup turned his paper over, pulled in his feet and crossed his legs, but made no reply.

"Folks can't help dyin', Samuel—that is, I can't. I hate to go before I've made the sort soap and put up the tall pickles, but I can't help myself. It was so with Mrs. Watkins. She had the soap grease all ready and was all ready to dye rags for a new carpet, but when Gabriel's horn sounded she had to spread her wings. You'll miss the soft soap, Samuel, fur you're a great hand to wash up, and you'll miss the pickles, fur you love sour things, but will you miss me?"

Mr. Gallup held the paper in his left hand and reached down his right to scratch his heel through his sock, but he was dumb. Mrs. Gallup looked at him through her tears for a time and then choked down a sob and said:

"Well, if you don't miss me I can't help it. I've allus had hot water ready when you wanted to wash your feet, and you've never found me without stickin' salve fur sore fingers. I've nursed you through colic and sot up with you through fever. You've never had to tell me my bread was heavy or the biscuit tasted of saleratus. And when I'm laid away, Samuel, you'll remember that I wore the same bonnet and shawl fur 21 years and that I allus made a pair of shoes last three years. Haven't I done purty well all things considered?"

Mr. Gallup might have agreed with her, but if he did he didn't say so aloud. He crossed his legs the other way and scratched the other heel, and when Mrs. Gallup could restrain her tears she observed:

"I ain't leavin' this house the way

some wives would, Samuel. When I am gone, you'll find your shirts and socks and everything in the usual place, and you won't have to sew on a button. I'll even scald out the teapot and scour out the dishpan if I have time. If angels can look down from heaven, then I want to look down and see that I've left everything in order. I want to ask you about angels, Samuel. Are they all old or young angels, or are they sorter mixed up? Will I be set back 30 or 40 years, or will I be an old woman angel?"

She looked directly at Mr. Gallup and waited for a reply, but he was reading how to make a hammock out of a flour barrel, and he paid no heed to the question.

"And are all angels purty, Samuel?" she continued after awhile. "I've never been purty since I was a baby and fell out of the winder, but if I've got to be an angel I want my face made over as soon as I get up there. I'm not goin' to be p'inted out fur my homeliness as I fly around. If I was, I know I'd make up faces at some of 'em. Will I be changed in the twinklin' of an eye and made as purty as the rest of 'em?"

Something like a smile flitted over the face of Mr. Gallup, but it was probably caused by the article he was reading.

"And about the music, Samuel? I can't play on no harp without lessons. I have never even seen a harp. When we was first married, I used to play on the accordion fur you, but it was awful poor playin', and you soon got sick of it. Is it goin' to be expected that I kin fly right up to heaven and begin playin' on a harp the very first thing? If it is, then I dunno as I want to die. I never could a-bear havin' folks laugh at me. And the singin', Samuel—the singin'! My voice is cracked, and I sing through my nose, and is that goin' to do up there? I s'pose I could walk around with a robe on and talk and visit, but I can't sing nor play, and they needn't expect it. Samuel, shall we talk about whether you'd better take a second wife or not? Sometimes I think you had, and sometimes I think you hadn't. What do you think?"

Mr. Gallup turned from the hammock article to one on natural gas in Ohio, and he extended his legs again and prepared to digest it thoroughly. It might have occurred to him that Mrs. Gallup was in the room and that she or some one else was talking to him, but he answered not. Ten minutes had gone by when he finished the article and looked up and around as if he had suddenly missed something. Mrs. Gallup lay curled up on the lounge fast asleep, and in the corner of each eye still glistened a big tear.

The township trustees this morning sent George Braden to Michigan. Braden is a cripple, and as he had no place to stay in this city he thought it would be best to go to the home of his daughters, where he will reside in the future.

John Winters, known as "Jack the Ripper," who was arrested Sunday night for being drunk and disorderly on Washington street, was given a hearing yesterday afternoon and fined $6.00. He put up security for the amount and was released.

Marriage licenses have been issued to: Paul R. Lowry, of Salem, and Anna Wernet Little, of Hanover township; Alfred S. McKinnon and Elizabeth J. Parker, of East Liverpool; George L. Burt and Margaret L. Marsh, Wellsville; R. G. McDevitt, West Point, and Jennie McCoy, Madison township.

THE GALLUP FAMILY.

AN EVENING OF LAMENTATIONS BY THE AILING WIFE.

She Knew Her Time For Departure For the Other World Had Come, and She Was Anxious to Become an Angel, but There Were Drawbacks.

[Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.]

Mr. Gallup had finished his supper, removed his coat and shoes and sat down in the rocking chair to read the copy of The Chemung County Gazette he had brought home from the post-office when Mrs. Gallup dropped down on the lounge with a sigh and began:

"Samuel, if you could spare a dyin woman three or four minits of your time I should like to talk to you. I know you don't like to be bothered when you are readin, and I wouldn't say a word if it was only a bile on my leg or one of my back aches, but it's more serious than that, Samuel—fur more serious."

Mr. Gallup stretched his legs out to their fullest extent and made his toes crack, but he never looked up from his paper.

"I don't want to give you no sudden shock," continued Mrs. Gallup as the tears began to stream down her cheeks and her nose to twitch, "but it's my duty to tell you, so you kin prepare yourself. Samuel, you'll be a widow before Saturday night! Tonight is Tuesday night. Before sundown on Saturday night the funeral will be over, I'll be an angel, and you'll be free to go out somewhere every evenin and play checkers. Do you hear me, Samuel?"

Mr. Gallup may or may not have heard her, but if he did he paid not the slightest attention.

"Yes; I've got my call to go," she resumed as she wiped her eyes on her apron. "I've had rheumatiz, fever, consumption and heart disease, and many and many a time I've expected to go, but I have never felt like this before. My heart goes tunk, tunk, tunk, my lungs seem to be hitchin around, and now and then my breath shuts off on me the same as if I had got caught in a hole in the fence. Mrs. Watkins was took this very way before she died, and so was Mr. Comfort. It may come tonight, or it may be delayed till tomorrow, but within a day or two I'll be an angel. You won't blame me fur dyin, will you, Samuel?"

Mr. Gallup turned his paper over, pulled in his feet and crossed his legs, but made no reply.

"Folks can't help dyin, Samuel—that is, I can't. I hate to go before I've made the soft soap and put up the tall pickles, but I can't help myself. It was so with Mrs. Watkins. She had the soap grease all ready and was all ready to dye rags for a new carpet, but when Gabriel's horn sounded she had to spread her wings. You'll miss the soft soap, Samuel, fur you're a great hand to wash up, and you'll miss the pickles, fur you love sour things, but will you miss me?"

Mr. Gallup held the paper in his left hand and reached down his right to scratch his heel through his sock, but he was dumb. Mrs. Gallup looked at him through her tears for a time and then choked down a sob and said:

"Well, if you don't miss me I can't help it. I've allus had hot water ready when you wanted to wash your feet, and you've never found me without stickin salve fur sore fingers. I've nursed you through colic and sot up with you through fever. You've never had to tell me my bread was heavy or the biscuit tasted of saleratus. And when I'm laid away, Samuel, you'll remember that I wore the same bonnet and shawl fur 21 years and that I allus made a pair of shoes last three years. Haven't I done purty well all things considered?"

Mr. Gallup might have agreed with her, but if he did he didn't say so aloud. He crossed his legs the other way and scratched the other heel, and when Mrs. Gallup could restrain her tears she observed:

"I ain't leavin this house the way

some wives would, Samuel. When I am gone, you'll find your shirts and socks and everything in the usual place, and you won't have to sew on a button. I'll even scald out the teapot and scour out the dishpan if I have time. If angels can look down from heaven, then I want to look down and see that I've left everything in order. I want to ask you about angels, Samuel. Are they all old or young angels, or are they sorter mixed up? Will I be set back 30 or 40 years, or will I be an old woman angel?"

She looked directly at Mr. Gallup and waited for a reply, but he was reading how to make a hammock out of a flour barrel, and he paid no heed to the question.

"And are all angels purty, Samuel?" she continued after awhile. "I've never been purty since I was a baby and fell out of the winder, but if I've got to be an angel I want my face made over as soon as I get up there. I'm not goin to be p'inted out fur my homeliness as I fly around. If I was, I know I'd make up faces at some of 'em. Will I be changed in the twinklin of an eye and made as purty as the rest of 'em?"

Something like a smile flitted over the face of Mr. Gallup, but it was probably caused by the article he was reading.

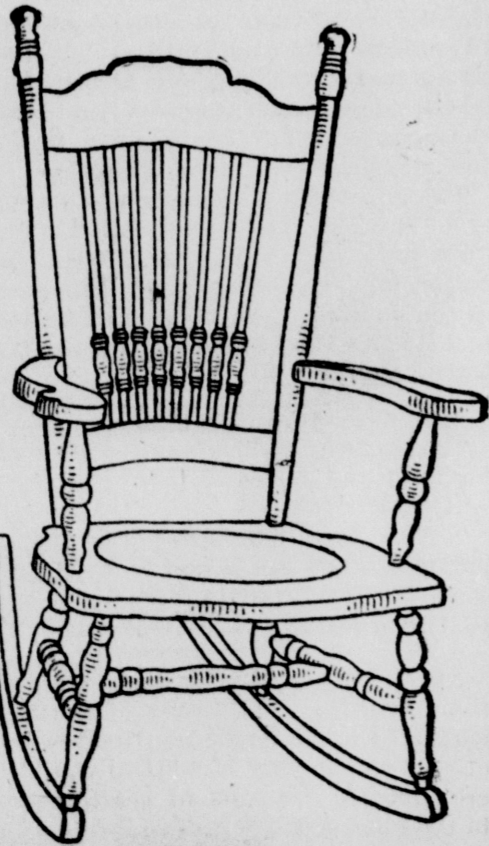

"And about the music, Samuel? I can't play on no harp without lessons. I have never even seen a harp. When we was first married, I used to play on the accordion fur you, but it was awful poor playin, and you soon got sick of it. Is it goin to be expected that I kin fly right up to heaven and begin playin on a harp the very first thing? If it is, then I dunno as I want to die. I never could a-bear havin folks laugh at me. And the singin, Samuel—the singin! My voice is cracked, and I sing through my nose, and is that goin to do up there? I s'pose I could walk around with a robe on and talk and visit, but I can't sing nor play, and they needn't expect it. Samuel, shall we talk about whether you'd better take a second wife or not? Sometimes I think you had, and sometimes I think you hadn't. What do you think?"

Mr. Gallup turned from the hammock article to one on natural gas in Ohio, and he extended his legs again and prepared to digest it thoroughly. It might have occurred to him that Mrs. Gallup was in the room and that she or some one else was talking to him, but he answered not. Ten minutes had gone by when he finished the article and looked up and around as if he had suddenly missed something. Mrs. Gallup lay curled up on the lounge fast asleep, and in the corner of each eye still glistened a big tear.

FLIM FLAM GAME OF TWO STRANGERS

They Tried to Work a Change Racket on Mrs. A. V. Thompson But

SHE WASN'T TO BE FOOLED

NOW OUT JUST NINE DOLLARS

Two very slick flim flam change artists were in the city Saturday night and strange to say they occupied their attentions to trying to work their game on Mrs. A. V. Thompson, mother of Chief of Police Thompson, and William Nath, father-in-law of Mayor Davidson.

Mrs. Thompson did not get taken in on the strangers' little game, but Mr. Nath is just shy $9, as he gave a ten-dollar bill in exchange for a one-dollar bill. He made complaint to the authorities, but the strangers have not been located.

Late Saturday night a well dressed man entered the grocery store of Mrs. A. V. Thompson, corner of Fourth and Washington street. Mrs. Thompson was alone in the store as the stranger undoubtedly intended she should be. He looked about the store for a short time and then asked if she kept tobies. Receiving an answer in the affirmative he asked for a dime's worth. When he had received his tobies he tendered a $20 bill in payment and Mrs. Thompson remarked that it was rather late to change a bill of that size and she didn't believe she could do it, as she didn't have the small change necessary to get the $4.90. He insisted that he needed the change very badly.

Just at this juncture another man entered the store room and overheard the conversation he spoke up and said he would go and get the $5 bill changed. Mrs. Thompson told him all right, for him to get $5 worth of change and she would give him a $5 bill when he returned.

He returned in a short time and received a bill for the change and then Mrs. Thompson changed the $20 bill, giving the man a $10 bill and $9.90 in change. While she had been receiving the $5 bill the party who had purchased the tobies had been fumbling around in his pockets and announced that he had just found a dime, and if she had no objection he would return the change and get a $10 bill. He then commenced to talk about a trivial matter and when Mrs. Thompson returned with the $10 bill he took it out of her hand, and without giving her the change stated that he would give her the two tens for his $20, which would have left him just $9.90 and the tobies ahead.

Mrs. Thompson was not to be caught, and reaching out took the $10 bill, then ordered the fellows from the store.

The parties worked the same kind of a game successfully on William Nath and he came out behind just $9.

An amusing incident connected with the affair is the fact that about half an hour after the strangers had appeared at the store of Mrs. Thompson her son, Chief of Police Thompson, walked in and told her they were in town. His mother informed him if he had come a little sooner he might have had the pleasure of meeting them both, as they had just left.

WAS LOCKED IN.

She Beckoned to a Stranger, And He Thought She Was Flirting With Him.

There was fun at the Kinsey Plumbing Co.'s office on Sixth street yesterday morning. The latch on the inside of the door has been broken off and the door cannot be opened from the inside, except by pulling on the chain which fastens the bolt on the upper part of the door. Strangers are of course not acquainted with the modus operandi of this movement, and when they get inside, there they are. Of course they can easily effect an entrance, if the door be not locked, as the latch is all right from the outside. A lady patron walked into the office yesterday, during the absence of the proprietors, found they were absent, waited until she was tired and then essayed to go home, but was foiled in the attempt. She possesses Job-like patience; but patience finally ceased to be a virtue, and, rendered desperate, she beckoned frantically to a gentleman who was passing by. He is a newspaper man, and naturally very modest, and for the moment he was horrified at this, to him, open and reckless attempt at flirtation. But the lady's frantic attempts at last caused him to come to her rescue. She was profuse in her thanks, explained the situation to him, and he meandered uptown, happy in the knowledge of the fact that the fair female had no evil intentions respecting himself.

The second laughable incident occurred at an earlier hour in the morning, when two bright young school girls found themselves locked in. A gentleman patron stepped in, walked past the girls to the desk, when the elder girl said: "Mr., are you Mr. Kinsey?" She was answered in the negative, and then asked him if he would kindly open the door for them. He endeavored to do so, but met with failure. The young ladies were very anxious, as they said they would be late for school. The gentleman then made a tour of investigation, found that he could unlock the rear door, received the warm thanks of the anxious and blushing maidens, and sent them on their way rejoicing, they being compelled to make their exit over barrels and boxes and through the side entrance to the adjoining residence. Only this and nothing more.

THE POTTERS

Are Holding a Business Session Today at Hotel Henry, Pittsburgh.

The Manufacturing Potters association is in session today at Hotel Henry, Pittsburgh.

Among other things the association will consider the advisability of raising prices on certain lines of ware and also the discontinuance of the what are known as southern teas.

The following persons from this city are in attendance:

George C. Thompson, N. A. Frederick, Colonel John N. Taylor, Charles F. Goodwin, E. H. Sebring, G. W. Ashbaugh.

Severely Injured.

John Morgan, the well known knife sharpener, of Wellsville, was thrown from a street car in the Diamond at noon today and had his arm severely injured.

The motorman started the car before Morgan had gotten off, as he was watching a lady getting off the other side of the car.

YOUTHFUL GANG OF POKER FIENDS

APPEARED ON THE SCENE

The Boys Were Good Sprinters and Lost No Time In Getting Away.

THREE OF THEM ARRESTED

Complaint was made to the authorities yesterday that a crowd of small boys had been playing poker on Thompson's green, and requested that a stop be put to the practice.

Officers Morris and Davidson shortly after noon yesterday hid themselves to Thompson's pottery and secreted themselves where they could command a view of the green and had not long to wait.

About 2 o'clock seven boys came down the track, and when all had assembled a ring was formed and the crowd proceeded to "bust" a few jack pots. "Shorty" Rusby was banker and stood up so he could see for some distance. It was also his duty to keep the crowd informed as to any danger from the police.

Things went all right until the officers had sized up the whole crowd. They emerged from the pottery and when the boys spied them they stopped the game abruptly and started up the railroad. When the police increased their pace so did the boys, but finally started to run.

They were chased around the pottery and up the river. When a point near the street railway power house was reached the boys changed their course and went over the hill. In the meantime Officer Davidson had taken a car and arrived at the power house in time to see the direction taken by the poker players. Officer Morris, who had walked up the railway track, arrived shortly afterward and together they came to the Diamond on a car. They arrived downtown before the boys and were there to receive them.

The crowd had separated, however, and the police were compelled to look for them separately. Officer Dawson was mustered into service and young McDole and William Podwell were located at the corner of Sixth and Washington, where an exciting chase took place.

Podwell and McDole separated and one went down the Midway, while the other chose Sixth street. Dawson and Morris followed the latter, while Davidson went after Podwell. They all brought up at the corner of Market and Fifth, but the boys were gone.

Officer Morris afterward captured Podwell on West Market street, and he was taken to jail.

Earl McDole and George Rusby were arrested later in the evening by Officers Dawson, Morris and Davidson. They all pleaded not guilty and they will be heard at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The other four boys who were in the game will likely be taken before night.

Died This Morning.

Helen, the 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Oswalt, died this morning at their home on Jackson square of diphtheria.

The funeral took place this afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. Gorrell officiating. Interment was made in River-view cemetery.

CHRISTMAS DINNER.

SALVATION ARMY WILL GIVE ONE TO THE WORTHY POOR.

The Feast Will be Served in the Barracks, And Citizens Are Asked to Contribute.

The Salvation Army will give a Christmas dinner to the worthy poor of the city.

It is the intention of Ensign Job and his corps of workers to have the dinner served in the barracks on Christmas day, and the people of the city will be asked to furnish the eatables.

Soliciting committees will be formed and every person will be given a chance to donate to this worthy cause, which will give joy and happiness to the 150 worthy poor people of East Liverpool.

There is no doubt but that the citizens will respond nobly to the call and that the dinner will be an immense success.

BIG HOLE IN THE PACKET KANAWHA

Fog Was Very Dense and She Had a Collision With the Packet Leroy.

THE LEROY WAS NOT DAMAGED

Kanawha Patched the Hole With a Piece of Canvass and Got Lost

IN THE FOG WHEN NEAR HERE

The Pittsburg-Charleston packet, Kanawha, and the packet LeRoy, which runs out of Wheeling, collided near Moundsville Sunday morning, and a hole was knocked in the bow of the Kanawha.

According to the story of passengers who were on the boat and left this city on the noon train yesterday for their homes in Beaver and Pittsburg, it was very foggy when the boat was near Moundsville. The watch was asked if he wanted to be relieved and he said he would like to be long enough to get his overcoat. He told the other man that he saw a boat coming down the river and the Kanawha whistled for the left side and received no answer. The next instant the Le Roy crashed into her with the above result.

Canvas was placed over the hole in the bow and the boat proceeded on her way to Pittsburg.

All went well until Sunday night when they were again caught in the fog a short distance from this city and became lost. The boat turned around and was going down stream when the Keystone State was discovered tied up to the beach and after some difficulty the Kanawha was made fast. She passed up yesterday for Pittsburg, where she will undergo repairs.

The Ben Hur and Keystone State passed down last night and both boats did a good business at this port. The Keystone made a very quick trip, being compelled to lay up Sunday night on account of the heavy fog.

The marks at the wharf this morning registered 10 feet and falling slowly. If the rain keeps up there are good prospects of another big river.

GOING TO STIR UP TRENTON POTTERS

Brotherhood to Begin a Campaign
With Mass Meetings and Speakers With Reputations.

HATCHIN TELLS OF CONDITION

American Federation of Labor Will Detail Mento Trenton to Revive Interest.

HUGHES GOING TO CONVENTION

The Trenton True American of yesterday prints the following in regard to the pottery situation:

Trenton within a very short time will be the scene of a big movement in the cause of organized labor.

The Brotherhood of Operative Potters is at its back and it will undoubtedly end in bringing about a complete reorganization of the pottery forces in this city.

The pottery trade is certainly in a distressing condition, and, prompted mainly by that reason, the executive board of the Brotherhood held its meeting last week at East Liverpool.

The Brotherhood is cut up into factions.

The jiggermen have left the ranks, and are now an independent organization, and some dissatisfaction is evident in other branches of the trade.

The meetings of the locals are poorly attended, and, in fact, the whole organization is badly in need of a general shaking up.

The executive board has hit upon a plan, which, is successful, will have the desired effect.

The executive board at its meeting last week detailed President Hughes to represent the Brotherhood at the national convention of the American Federation of Labor, which takes place at Louisville, Ky., next Thursday.

While there Mr. Hughes will arrange with some labor leaders of national prominence to come to this city and help in forming a permanent organization.

Mr. Hughes informed the Trenton members of the board last week that he will come to this city immediately after the holidays, and perhaps Secretary Duffy will accompany him.

Mr. Hughes will immediately arrange for a number of mass meetings, to be addressed by the men he will obtain in the convention next Thursday.

All the factions will be brought together, including the jiggermen, and the plans of the board will be presented to them.

Mr. Hughes' visit this time has nothing whatever to do with the new scale.

It is a permanent organization Mr. Hughes wants, as the Brotherhood motto is "In Union There is Strength."

Organizers will, in all probability, be stationed here until the desired result is accomplished.

It is the Brotherhood's intention to endeavor to establish an arbitration board in the east, to be composed of members of the Brotherhood and the manufacturers, who will settle all differences of a local nature which may chance to arise.

This system of arbitration is in effect in the west, and it has produced excellent results.

It has been a means of bringing the men into close relations with their employers and the conditions of the trade in the west is today far in advance of that in the east, simply because the men are organized.

Speaking with Vice President Hutchins yesterday in regard to his trip west he said:

"One of the most noticeable features of our trip west was the prosperous condition of the potteries there.

"The plants are running night and day and some of the manufacturers are far behind in their orders.

"Almost every incoming train brings scores of merchants from the nearby towns, trying to hurry the manufacturers with their orders."

The members of the board spent a great part of their time in visiting the different plants there, also some of the new ones recently erected, and they are all fitted up with the latest appliances.

The prosperity west of the Alleghenies is, from Mr. Hutchins' statement, a striking contrast to the conditions existing here.

Several of the plants here are working on short time, while in previous years this was their busy season in supplying holiday orders.

The uniform price list is by no means a dead issue, and the Brotherhood has shown no signs of relinquishing it.

It is not their intention to enforce it, but simply prevail upon the men to accept it, which they hold they should do, because they adopted it at the Pittsburg convention.

If the scale is put in force here it is probable that some changes will be made in order to meet the inconveniences the men are forced to work under, but at the same time the list will be used as the base of operations.

Mr. Hutchins, in speaking of the list as it is now in force in the west, says that the potters there now are fully satisfied that they are more than reimbursed for the losses they suffered when the list was first put into effect.

The executive board further has sent the manufacturers a communication asking their association to appoint a committee to confer with the committee from the Brotherhood for the purpose of making a number of changes in the uniform price list.

The uniform scale was a new departure among the potters and they had had three months' experience with it when they went into convention at Wheeling in July. There were a number of departments or branches of the trade that were not embodied in the scale and the different locals through their delegates in convention passed several resolutions in regard to these matters.

A meeting of the manufacturers will be held the first week in December, when the proposed changes will be discussed.

Attorney W. B. Hill Files an Answer to the Suit Instituted by Joseph L. Deidrick.

Lisbon, Dec. 4.—(Special).—W. B. Hill, as executor of the estate of the late William Baggott, of East Liverpool, has filed an answer in the case recently instituted against him by Joseph L. Deidrick.

Deidrick claims a judgment for $987 50, which he claims due him for work done for Baggott as the surviving partner of the late firm of the S. & W. Baggott company.

The defendant claims that if he ever did perform any such work the account did not accrue within six years before the filing of the action.

CANDIDATES ARE GETTING READY

A Large Number of People Who
Have a Desire to Serve
Their County.

FOUR OFFICES TO BE FILLED

This City Will Have a Share of Candidates, and Salem Is Represented.

THE CANVASS WILL BEGIN EARLY

Candidates for office who will make the race next spring at the Republican primaries are springing up like mushrooms, and before the time for the primaries arrive there will be a large bunch of people who would like to hold office in the field.

The offices to fill are:
Treasurer, commissioner, representative (two to elect), infirmary director.

The commissioner that will retire is French, of Salem, and the prospective candidates for this office are:

Ira Kannal, Unity township.
Henry Hillman, Leetonia.
Melvin Varnes, Lisbon.
Eden Reeder, Hanover township.
S. R. Dixon, East Liverpool.
George Grosshans, East Liverpool.
The announced candidates for treasurer are:

W. A. Thompson, Salineville.
J. W. Irwin, East Liverpool.
Charles Snyder, Salem.
S. T. Herbert, East Liverpool.

Albert Hayes, of Salem, is also mentioned as a candidate for this office.

For representative there are two candidates to elect and it goes without saying that Samuel Buell, of Salem, will be given a second term. There are plenty of candidates who would like to accompany him on his next trip to Columbus, and the most prominent among these at the present time are: E. W. Hill and W. B. McCord, of this city.

It is also stated on good authority that Council D. M. McLane, of this city, has a leaning in the same direction and may shy his political castor in the ring, while D. M. Crist, of Moultrie, is also mentioned.

When it comes down to infirmary director the candidates have not commenced to loom up very strong. It is McBride's time to retire and thus far the only parties who have been mentioned for the office are Horace Martin, of Elkrun township, and J. W. Albright, of this city.

Should the above bunch of candidates decide to all remain in the field it will make a warm race.

It is probable the primaries next spring will be held the latter part of March or the early part of April, although the matter is left to the discretion of the candidates, who are given the privilege of setting their own time, as the county central committee figure that they are the people who have to tramp through the mud and pay the fiddler.

VEGETABLES.

Why Are Some Vulgar and Others Aristocratic?

Why do we respect some vegetables and despise others? The bean is a graceful, confiding, engaging vine, but you never can put beans into poetry or into the highest kind of prose. There is no dignity in the bean.

Corn—which in my garden grows alongside the bean, and so far as I can see with no affectation of superiority—is however, the child of song. It waves in all literature. But mix it with beans, and its high tone is gone. Succotash is vulgar; it is the bean in it. The bean is a vulgar vegetable, with out culture or any flavor of high society among vegetables.

Then there is the cucumber, like so many people, good for nothing when it is ripe, and the wildness has gone out of it. How inferior to the melon, which grows upon a similar vine! The cucumber is a sort of low comedian in a company where the melon is a minor gentleman.

The lettuce is to me a most interesting study. Lettuce is like conversation: it must be fresh and crisp, so sparkling that you scarcely notice the bitter in it. Lettuce, like most talkers, though, is apt to run rapidly to seed.

Blessed is that sort which comes to a head, and so remains—like a few people I know—growing more solid and satisfactory and tender and whiter at the center.

Lettuce, like conversation, requires a good deal of oil, to avoid friction and keep the company smooth; a pinch of Attie salt, a dash of pepper, mustard and vinegar, but so mixed that you will notice no sharp contrasts, and a trifle of sugar.

I feel that I am in the best society when I am with lettuce. It is in the most select vegetable circle.—Charles Dudley Warner in "My Summer In a Garden."

FOLDED TRANSFERS.

They Increase a Conductor's Work and Are Trying to His Temper.

"Some people have no sympathy for street car conductors," said one of their number after he had had a peculiarly lively time in making change and giving and collecting transfers, says the New York Times.

"Now," continued the conductor, "there is one little matter that would save us lots of trouble if the people would only bear it in mind, and that is the way they hand in their transfers. 'Some men and a few women know enough to hand us the little strips of paper just as they receive them—that is, spread out in such a way that we can glance at them, see that they are all right and then place them with the package already collected. The majority of people don't do this, and as a rule the women are the worst of the lot.

"When a woman gets a transfer, she folds it up into as small a space as possible and then stows it away in her purse. When the time comes to collect this from her, she fishes the wad of paper out of the purse, hands it to the conductor and sits back in her seat content with what she has done.

"The conductor has to unfold this piece of paper to see if it is really the proper transfer. This takes time, and when there are a dozen women on the car all doing the same thing the poor conductor has more than he can do to keep his temper. Men as a rule don't fold their transfers, but content themselves with shoving the slips into their pockets and then producing a crumpled piece of paper when it is called for, tossing it to the conductor, who has to smooth it into shape.

"The same people would never think of handing in a railroad or theater ticket in the same way."

MORE ABOUT SCARLET WOMEN

This Third Street Resident Denounces Them In No Measured Terms.

THE DEN MUST BE CLOSED

This Gentleman Has Confidence In Mayor Davidson's Desire For Good Government.

AN HONEST WOMAN SPEAKS OUT

This morning, while seated in our sanctum sanctorum, a prominent and well known citizen called at the office and thus made comment respecting this paper and its action in denouncing the infamous den of death doing business on Third street:

"I came in purposely this morning, Captain, to commend you for your article in last night's issue headed 'Third Street Den of Death.' You were not harsh, by any manner of means, as the place designated is an utter abomination and a disgrace to our city. I blame the man who owns the property, or the agent who rents it to such cattle, as much as I do the cattle themselves. I know that, at times, these creatures will secure property, and the agents or owners be unaware of their true character or lack of character; and I further know that it is a hard matter for the low to catch such customers, as they are very cute and cunning in their nefarious work. But these special creatures, these scarlet women of death, have become very bold and reckless; so much so that I have personally notified the agent who rents the property to them of their vile words and viler actions, indulged in to such an extent as to make them a nuisance in the immediate neighborhood, and a menace to decency and good morals.

"Further, I have personally notified one of our policemen and made him acquainted with the facts which have come to my knowledge; facts which should have resulted in some action being taken against the shameless occupants of the den in question. I am charitable enough to believe that the officer referred to is a good policeman, citizen and guardian of the peace, and he may be engaged in accumulating undeniable proof against these scarlet women before he takes fuller action.

"Only a few days since, these shameless women indulged in such open and public exposure of themselves as to call down fierce denunciations from men who are not over particular in their condemnation of evil.

"This house is, as you have said, a regular assignation house, the very worst class of house which can exist in any community. I heard an honest woman in the immediate neighborhood call the vile proprietress of this assignation house to account openly only a few days since, telling the said proprietress that she deserved a good horsewhipping for decoying young girls in her den and for permitting married women to make the house a center for criminal practice. And the said proprietress made use, openly, of language which should have placed her behind prison bars, she denying everything of which she was accused, until the courageous woman confronting her said: 'You can't browbeat me, you shameless creature. Mrs. McDuff (and that's not her name) is at this moment in your den, and Mr. Obaff (and that's not his name) has just joined her, and you and your gang and your patrons in general should be in the work house, and I'll do my level best to see that you are sent there.' 'Isn't it a shame, sir, that such dens can exist in our bright and prosperous little city of East Liverpool? There is something radically wrong, and the quicker it is made right, the better for all concerned. If necessary, I will become one of a vigilance committee which will see to it that the law is enforced against all such debased and abandoned creatures, male or female.

"Let me be just, however, in stating that I believe that Mayor Davidson will take immediate measures looking to the suppression of these dens of iniquity in our midst, and that he will deal out stern justice to any official who will dare to wink at the evil practices of these blots upon society.

"THIRD STREET RESIDENT."

TRUSTEES.

Report on the Condition of the Soldiers' And Sailors' Home at Sandusky.

The annual report of the board of trustees and officers of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Home at Sandusky was filed at the governor's office Friday.

It shows a very satisfactory condition of affairs at the home with no financial deficiencies in any of the departments.

The report states that at present there are 1,337 inmates, taxing the capacity of the institution to the utmost and that the total cost of maintaining the home during the year past was $183,790 69. The per capita cost was $151 14, about the same as last year.

Many improvements have been made this year and two new cottages are under process of construction. The officers are heartily commended for their work.

ZANESVILLE WINS.

Prof. Rayman Worked Hard to Get the Teachers to Meet in This City.

Coshocton Age. Superintendent Lash came from Zanesville with the firm determination to land the next meeting of the association for his town, and Superintendent Rayman came from East Liverpool with a similar resolution tucked away under his hat.

An effort was made to have the committee meet Friday night, but the members were too busy. Saturday morning they took up the question and settled on Zanesville, it being more centrally located.

Prof. Rayman did all in his power for his city, but the odds were against him and the meeting went to Zanesville.

OPEN STORES.

The Officials of the Clerks' Union Tell Us That We Were in Error Last Night.

From what we considered reliable authority, the News Review last night made the announcement that the stores would remain open for each evening from the present date until after the holidays. Officials of the clerks' union now inform us that we are in error, and that the date for opening has been fixed for Tuesday night, December 11, and continue for two weeks, keeping open until 9 o'clock each evening. We gladly make this correction, and hope that the generous natures connected with the clerks' organization will forgive the unintentional break.

NO TIME FOR FRIENDSHIP.

That Old Fashioned Quality Is Said to Be Out of Date.

Friendship is said to be out of date. We certainly have not much time to spare nowadays, even to reflect on what the rush and hurry and bustle of modern life are costing us. Now and again, however, there is borne in upon us the sad realization of the losses we sustain as we tear and scramble through what we now call life. And is not one of these the power of establishing close friendships?

It is a sad reflection, but the more we think of it the truer we shall find it to be, that we no longer have time to knit together these bonds of true friendship and affection which bound our predecessors together and made life sweet to them.

We are always in a hurry, rushing here and there. We meet and know many people in crowds and yet never have time to understand them, to give them or gain from them sympathy. We can scarcely spare an hour that is unconnected with some form of entertainment or some business matter to those we call our closest friends.

Letter writing has been reduced to its least common denominator as time presses on us heavily, and we have no pursuits that we can share with our so called friends that enable us to study each other's characters. Friendship, in fact, has become a mere term with the general run of people.—Chicago Record

Bright's Threat to His Wife.

Two characteristic anecdotes of John Bright are given in Sir Edward Russell's memoirs, which he has published under the title "That Reminds Me—"

Bright was supposed to be a total abstainer, but once when Edward Miall was very nervous at the prospect of having to make an important speech in the house, Bright said:

"Well, Miall, if I were you, I'd for once go and have a pint of champagne."

Mr. Miall did as he was told, and the result may be judged from the narrator's comment that "champagne on an unaccustomed interior is not always a curative or a tonic."

Bright "rarely had any difference with his wife," but occasionally they were not at one about the children. When they came to a point of absolute disagreement, he used to say:

"Now, I tell thee, if thou doesn't do what I wish, I'll go straight to Mr. Gladstone and ask him to make me a knight," to which the answer invariably was:

"Oh, anything rather than that."

IT'S IMPOSSIBLE

To Disprove Facts—It Is Decidedly Easy to Verify East Liverpool Opinion.

Nothing by way of an introduction can be added to the experience and opinions given below, which could increase their value. East Liverpool people can safely be left to draw their own conclusions based on such convincing proof as this citizen offers. What is there lacking in evidence like this to satisfy a dyed-in-the-wool doubting Thomas?

Mr. Wm. Anderson, of 305 Lisbon street, says: "During the Civil war I enlisted and served three years in the 42d Ohio infantry. From the exposure during the war I attribute the severe aching and weakness in the loins and muscular rheumatism of recent years, which all seemed to center in my kidneys. In the morning when first getting up I was very dizzy until I had moved around for a time, and my nervous system became affected, causing a fluttering and fullness around the heart. Seeing an advertisement in the News Review I got Doan's Kidney Pills at W. & W. pharmacy and took them. A few doses gave me relief. The improvement was gradual and continued as the medicine got more thoroughly into my system. I firmly believe that Doan's Kidney Pills will in every case as they did in mine, prove the justness of the claims made for them."

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY
TUESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1900.

FLIM FLAMMERS.

Two of these delectable customers were in our city yesterday. They tried the change dodge on several of our merchants. Watch out for them and report their presence to the nearest policeman or to city hall.

ADVOCATES OF EVIL.

Are you embraced in this class? Are you advocating and sustaining that which upholds and countenances evil? If so, then you will be held strictly accountable by your creator and be punished for your sin. Have a care.

Attached a Buggy.

A. F. Perry yesterday in the court of Squire Rose attached a buggy belonging to Robert Gravatt, the contractor who left the city Sunday. The case is for $36 60 and will be heard tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock.

SET AT REST.

All doubt as to the death of poor Casey is now set at rest, and his suffering and sorrowing wife will be compelled to accept the fiat of fate. In your happy homes, readers of the News Review, breathe a true prayer of sympathy for this sadly bereaved wife and her orphan children; and, if an opportunity be offered you, let that sympathy assume a practical form, as actions speak louder than words.

"THE SALOON DIRECTORY."

Have you seen a copy of this delectable pamphlet? One of our councilmanic body was inspecting a copy yesterday and making criticisms and comments respecting the pictures, advertisements and reading matter. In this he was assisted by a well known business man, and the conversation would have been richly enjoyed had it been repeated in the presence of a large audience of our representative citizens. Council acted very wisely when it refused to father the monstrosity.

SQUARE DEALING.

Square dealing, honest and above board, is sure to win in the long run. Treachery and double dealing and chicanery may win for the time being; but they are sure to go to the wall at the finish. The men to whom is entrusted the enforcement of the laws and ordinances enacted for the control of this city will do well if they do their duty to the letter. There are mutterings in the air which bode disaster to officials who are playing a double part. And this is but a note of fair warning. If the shoe does not fit you, do not put it on. It does not embrace any fair, or true, or just, or honest official. If you are a trickster, a double dealer, a shyster and a cheat, it means you and will continue to mean you until you are fully exposed.

TO OUR READERS.

The entire edition of the News Review was delivered to patrons at an unusually late hour last night. It was a day of accidents in this city, and the delay was simply unavoidable. One of the largest routes in the central part of the city was neglected until a late hour, the papers not going out from this office until almost 6 o'clock, in consequence of a mistake on the part of one of our best carriers, he claiming that he had made arrangements for a substitute carrier to deliver the route last evening, and the substitute failing to materialize. Our subscribers will please pardon us on this occasion, and we shall do our utmost to avoid a repetition.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING.

Very earnest protests against the electric lighting of this city have reached the office of the News Review. Would it not be well for a representative body of our citizens to take this matter in hand and appoint a committee to wait upon Superintendent Healy and endeavor to have him remedy existing defects? We have been informed that Mr. Healy has been making herculean efforts to have the street railway service made first-class in every particular; and if this be the case, then he would no doubt do his utmost, at as early a date as possible, to have the electric lighting made all that can be desired. We have but a slight acquaintance with Superintendent Healy, having met him a few times in a business way;

but on those occasions he has been courteous and obliging in the extreme, and has kept his word to the letter.

Since inditing the above, we have had a personal interview with Mr. Healy, in which he stated that he is aware of the fact that the electric lighting system has not been giving satisfaction to patrons, and further stated that it has not been giving him satisfaction, and that he has demanded that necessary improvements be made by the company, under penalty of abandoning their system.

Mr. Healy states that an expert will be here within the next few days and give the matter full attention, after which the customers of the home company will receive full satisfaction in the matter of electric lighting, as none but the very best will be accepted or furnished local patrons.

COMING TO EAST LIVERPOOL.

Educational Advantages at Ohio Valley Business College Prove Very Attractive.

The following young people, anxious respecting educational matters, are coming to East Liverpool and have entered upon a course of study in Ohio Valley Business College, whose reputation for excellency and special advantages for the young folks is rapidly spreading all over the country:

Everett Saint, Calcutta.
Ora Chamberlin, Cannon's Mill.
Charles Kreiter, Wellsville.
Ethel McCann, Wellsville.
Curtiss Deringer, East End.
Clyde Cummins, Wellsville.
Flora Skiles, Kendall, Pa.
Mamie Porter, Steubenville.

The above students entered upon their studies at the college yesterday.

Natives Took Oath of Allegiance.

Manila, Dec. 4.—At Vigan 2,200 natives, nearly all fighting rebels, crowded the church and took the oath of allegiance to the United States. The oath was administered by the priest. All but 500 of those sworn were Bolomen. The number included the twelve hundred Bolomen who had previously surrendered. The services in the church included an address by General Young and an exhortation by the priest.

Rev. Dr. William Howard Day Dead.

Harrisburg, Dec. 4.—Rev. William Howard Day, A. M., D. D., general secretary of the A. M. E. Zion church, died, aged 73 years. He was one of the foremost colored men of his generation.

A Joke of Sydney Smith's.

On the occasion of a dinner Sydney Smith was the guest, and when the evening was over the host thanked the wit heartily for the entertainment he had afforded. "I shall not forget you, Mr. Smith," he added. "Thank you. Take care you don't forget yourself tomorrow (it was Saturday) in church," rejoined Smith, whereat the host, Kershaw by name, rather bridled up.

"I hope, sir, I know how to behave myself in church!" "Well," said Smith good temperedly, "if I catch you smiling I will call you by name." "You may," rejoined the visitor. "The thing is absurd. I will give you a donation to the York hospital if it happens."

On the ensuing morning Smith read the prayers reverently, as he always did, then ascended the pulpit, looked around the church and rested his eye on the visitor whose name was Kershaw. That gentleman said afterward that he did not know what possessed him, but so it was he gave a broad smile. Thereupon the preacher was seized with a violent inclination to sneeze, and, applying his handkerchief with suitable action, he sounded "ker-ker k-ker-shaw" three times over.

THREATS MADE OVER TELEPHONE

Somebody Told Joe Winn They Would Shoot His Body Full of Holes.

HE WAS MUCH ALARMED

Thought the Speaker Was Reddy
Mason and at Once Entered a Complaint.

McCARRON DISMISSED THE CASE

The case of J. S. Winn versus "Reddy" Mason was heard in the court of Justice McCarron last evening.

Both sides had subpoenaed a number of witnesses and the affair was in the hands of Attorneys H. E. Gross-hans and R. G. Thompson, the latter representing defendant.

It was developed from the statement of plaintiff and from the evidence of several of the witnesses that Winn had, upon the occasion of the alleged offense, been summoned by telephone to John Rinehart's barn, and that the man at the other end of the phone had made the statement that he had two revolvers in his possession and would fill him so full of holes he would resemble a pepper
box. He could not swear it was Mason at the other end and none of the witnesses examined knew anything about the affair, other than the fact that they had been in the office when the conversation over the telephone occurred and that Winn had told them what the other man said.

The justice concluded this was rather far-fetched and finally discharged the defendant, assessing the costs upon the plaintiff.

HER "SUSPICION CURE."

It Made Life One Lingering Honeymoon For Mrs. Jones' Adviser.

"I would be quite happy if my husband would not spend so much of his time at his club," said Mrs. Jones, with a sigh.

"Why don't you try the suspicion cure?" said her intimate friend.

"What in the name of Susan B. Anthony is the suspicion cure?" asked Mrs. Jones in amazement.

"Well, my husband got in the habit of spending his evenings at his club, and I worried over it for some time before I hit upon a plan to keep him at home. At first I pleaded with him, telling him how lonely I was at home when he was away, but he would only laugh and promise to be home early, which meant midnight or later. Then I changed my tactics. Instead of asking him to remain at home I urged him to go to his club. The way he raised his eyebrows the first time I suggested it showed me I was on the right tack, and I resolved to keep it up. One night when he came home for dinner he announced that he had a severe headache and would remain home for the evening. I opposed the idea and pointed out that an evening at his club would cause him to forget his headache and do it good. He gave me a hard look, but acted on the suggestion and left for his club. Something told me that he would be back within an hour, so I made an elaborate toilet and waited for him to return. He came home, as I expected, with the plea that his head was worse and that he couldn't stand the noise at the club. I consoled with him and ignored his question concerning my elaborate toilet. He hasn't been away for an evening since. It is almost like the old honeymoon, only he appears to have something on his mind that he is not entirely satisfied about."

A Story of Anthony Hope.

Anthony Hope Hawkins, always a believer in men of letters standing by each other, worked tremendously hard to help on the fund which the Authors' society of London is trying to accumulate, from which pensions are to be paid to authors whose literary merit has not brought them a corresponding income and who view increasing years with fear.

Once an unfortunate writer who visited Mr. Hawkins at his rooms in Buckingham street, by the Embankment gardens, exclaimed on leaving with something in his pocket. "Oh, sir,
I feel that Providence must have sent me to you!"

And the reply came with a twinkle in his benefactor's eye. "Let us hope, however, that Providence will not acquire the habit of doing so."—Argo-

Camels cannot swim. They are very buoyant, but ill balanced, and their heads go under water. They can, however, be taught to swim rivers with the aid of goatskins or jars fastened under their necks. During the Baluchistan expedition of 1898 the camels were lowered into the sea from the ships, and their drivers, plunging overboard, clambered on to the backs of their charges, causing the animals' heads to come up, and thus assisted they were successfully piloted ashore.

EAST END.

NO GAS.

A Break in the Line of the Ft. Pitt Pitt Company Occurred This Morning Near Toronto.

The Ft. Pitt Gas company had a bad break in their lines below Toronto at 6:45 o'clock this morning and as a result there is a great deal of inconvenience and some suffering in East End.

Nine-tenths of the gas consumers in this section of the city are patrons of the Fort Pitt company. Some of the residents who rose early were enabled to cook breakfast before the break occurred, but the great majority were in the act of cooking the morning meal, while others had not even started.

In some cases the people were compelled to go to work without anything to eat.

The restaurants, however, did a good business all day.

WAITED ONE HOUR.

That is How Long it Took Pottery Employes to Get a Car to the City.

Car No. 4 was disabled this morning near the power house. Some 30 passengers were on board and after tramping about in the mud for some time were finally loaded on another car.

Last evening a crowd of 75 or 80 employes of the East End potteries waited at the Mulberry street crossing from 4:45 until 5:45 before they caught a car for the city.

While they waited four cars passed east, and when they returned after making the run to the loop they were barely sufficient to accommodate the crowd.

W. B. Thomas, in charge of car No.
1, yesterday had more than the ordinary amount of trouble. During the afternoon the car burned out six times.

LOST HER WATCH.

A Large Number of East End People
Aided in the Search, But it Couldn't Be Found.

A young woman from Dixonville was so unfortunate last night as to lose her watch somewhere in the vicinity of Mulberry street.

She had come down town early in the evening, but did not discover her loss until about 11 o'clock. Quite a crowd aided in the search, but no trace of the missing time piece could be found.

This morning another search was instituted, but it proved fruitless, and the general opinion is the article was lost before the woman came to town.

The name of the lady could not be learned.

TROUBLE.

Authorities Were Summoned to an East End Restaurant Last Night,
But Were Too Late.

There was trouble at an East End restaurant last night, and the author-ties were summoned, but Officer Hamilton being absent from the fire station on some other mission they did not respond. The matter was adjusted in some manner before the officer returned and his services were not needed.

DISMISSED SCHOOL.

Children in Both East End Buildings Were Given a Holiday
Today.

Owing to the scarcity of gas both the East End and Helana schools were dismissed today, as it was altogether too cold for the teachers and children to remain in the building.

SHIP SUBSIDY BILL.

It Will Displace Spooner Subsidy Bill.

Senator Frye May Take Up the Ship Bill Today—Hay-Pouncefote Treaty Next In Importance—Army Measure to Displace Both Whenever It Is Reported.

Washington, Dec. 4.—The Republican senatorial committee on order of business decided that the ship subsidy bill should displace the Spooner Philippine bill as the unfinished business. It also considered at the same time the disposition of the Hay-Pouncefote treaty and decided that that question should receive alternate attention with the shipping bill. The arrangement provides that the shipping bill shall have preference, but that when no one is prepared to make a speech on it the senate shall go into executive session for the consideration of the treaty.

In accordance with this understanding Senator Frye, at the first opportunity today, likely will move to take up the bill, and if this motion prevails, as it probably will, the effect will be to displace the Spooner bill, which there is no disposition at this time to press. Senator Frye probably will make a speech. It is not expected that any other senator will be prepared to proceed on the subsidy measure, and in that event Senator Lodge, of the committee on foreign relations, who will have charge of the treaty, probably will move an executive session in order to consider the treaty.

The arrangement further provides that if the army bill reaches the senate prior to the disposal of the shipping bill or the treaty, either or both of these may be displaced temporarily in order to permit the prompt consideration of that measure, which is considered to be of more pressing importance than either of the other questions. The same understanding prevails regarding the appropriation bills.

Senator Morgan's Nicaraguan canal bill received some consideration at the hands of the committee on order of business. The members of the committee apparently consider that the ratification of the treaty is a necessary preliminary to the passage of the canal bill, and the present disposition is to contend for that order of precedence.

Some of the members who had talked with Democratic senators expressed the opinion that there would be no effort to prevent this legislation by factious opposition, though they expect a number of speeches against it.

Senator Lodge was called into the conference for the purpose of consultation concerning the treaty. He stated that he would be prepared to proceed with it at any time, and that he was anxious to have it disposed of as early a day as possible.

LIMITING INJUNCTIONS.

Bill Reported to the House With Important Amendments.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Representative Littlefield, of Maine, from the judiciary committee of the house, presented a favorable report on what is known as "the conspiracy" bill, limiting the use of restraining orders and injunctions in disputes between employer and employee in places under federal control.

The report favors two changes in the bill. One strikes out the provision which would have the effect of excepting combinations in trade disputes from the operations of the Sherman anti-trust law. The other amends the bill so it will not cover instances of threats to injure persons or property, business or occupation, or overt acts of interference with the rights of others. Otherwise the bill is preserved in limiting the scope of injunctions.

HONORED THE DEAD.

House Organized, Heard Message and Then Adjourned.

Washington, Dec. 4.—The opening of the session in the house was brilliant, but not exciting. There were the usual throngs in the galleries and the usual display of floral pieces on the floor, but the proceedings were purely formal, consisting of the rapping to order by the speaker, prayer by the chaplain, the roll call of members, the appointment of the formal committees to wait on the president and the reception and reading of the president's message.

The deaths of the late Representatives Daly, of New Jersey, and Hoffecker, of Delaware, and Senator Davis, of Minnesota, and Gear, of Iowa, were announced, and as a further mark of respect to their memories the house adjourned until today.

OUT OF RESPECT FOR THE DEAD.

Senate Did Little Business at First Session.

Washington, Dec. 4.—In the senate the work of the short session of the Fifty-sixth congress was successfully launched.

Aside from the reading of the president's message and the administration of the oath of office to William B. Dillingham, the new senator from Vermont, who succeeds the late Justin S. Morrill, no business was transacted, out of respect to the memory of Senators Davis and Gear.

THE DEMOCRATS DIFFERED.

Their Caucus Was Unable to Agree Regarding Army Reorganization.

Washington, Dec. 4.—A caucus of the Democratic members of the house was held in the hall of the house at the close of the session to consider the course to be taken on army legislation. Representative Hay, of Virginia, a member of the military committee, explained the bill proposed by Secretary Root and urged the desirability of not legislating until the course of the government as to the Philippines had been more definitely determined. He proposed a resolution that the law now in existence as to the army be continued for two years.

Representatives Richardson, Bailey, Carmack, Newlands, Cox and others made speeches, showing considerable diversity of opinion as to what should be done. Mr. Hay finally withdrew his resolution, and the caucus adjourned without action.

New York Man Arranged to Have Jugular Vein Severed After Death.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Lest he be buried alive Henry G. Moore left $100 in his will for the person who would cut his jugular vein immediately after his death and $500 for the person who would see that his body was properly cremated.

The will was filed for probate in the Surrogate's office today. Mr. Moore died in London recently. He lived in this city for many years.

EVANGELIZE NATION.

Interdenominational Movement Under Way.

A DYING HOPE OF REV. MOODY.

The Idea Also Suggested by the Forward Movement of the Methodist Church—Put Into Practical Form by Evangelist Hall—Conference Held.

New York, Dec. 4.—An interdenominational movement to celebrate the beginning of the twentieth century by a systematic effort to evangelize the nation through the medium of existing churches and church societies, was agreed upon in a secret conference of representative religious workers, which met at the Young Men's Christian association building.

Every prominent religious society was represented. President Francis E. Clark, of the International Christian Endeavor society, came from Boston to attend the conference. Mrs. Margaret Bottome was there for the King's Daughters.

The Baptist Young People's union, the Epworth league, the Young Men's Christian association, evangelical alliances, social reform societies—all had delegates, noted and representative, present, who were enthusiastic over the whole scheme.

It is said that the idea was suggested by the "forward movement" of the Methodist church, which has set out to convert 3,000,000 souls and raise $20,000,000 before Jan. 1, 1902.

It is said that the dying hopes of the late evangelist, D. L. Moody, had something to do with suggesting the idea. But the scheme was first put into practical form by William Philipps Hall, the noted layman, who is generally known as the "business man's evangelist."

Mr. Hall communicated with a number of representative clergymen. The subject was generally discussed among them. They were next invited to express an opinion of the idea and be present at a private conference to be held Monday, Dec. 3, in New York city. More than 100 of these letters were sent out. Answers promising hearty co-operation was received from nearly every letter, and at the conference arrangements were made for carrying the plans into execution.

FIENDS CREMATED A MAN.

Saturated His Clothing With Turpentine. Set It Afire and Then Watched Him Burn.

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 4.—Screams of agony brought policemen to a saloon in East Dallas. Seated in a chair, unable to move, was a man whose garments were a mass of flames. The officers say Eugene Faulkner and J. W. Chapman were standing behind the bar smoking cigars and watching the unfortunate man who was being roasted to death.

"Bring some water here, quick," shouted an officer.

"Get it yourself," the policemen declare, one of the men said.

"Let him die. What's the use of worrying over him?"

One of the officers took off his coat and with it beat out the fire. The man was sent to the city hospital, where he died later. Soon after his arrival at the hospital the two men were brought before him for identification, when it was discovered that his eyes had been destroyed. He was Pate Bain, for many years a constable in this county. It is claimed by the officers that Bain was drugged and as he reclined in a chair unconscious a quantity of turpentine was poured over him and a match applied.

The two suspects were put in the city jail and guarded by deputies. A mob of 15 or 20 men called at the jail and demanded the prisoners of the jailer. The jailer swore that they were not in his possession; that they had been taken to Fort Worth.

"Well," said the leader of the mob, "if we catch them we will burn them."

Faulkner and Chapman refuse to talk and no motive is known for the crime.

THE PALACE WAS DESTROYED.

American Government Buildings Wrecked in Guam—Number of People Killed.

Manila, Dec. 4.—Rear Admiral Remey in his official reports of the recent typhoon, which visited the island of Guam, reports that the storm was the severest in 40 years. The palace at Agaña and the government buildings were unroofed and wrecked. The sea reached the plaza.

Many of the homeless sought refuge in the school and jail. No one is reported to have been killed at Agaña, but the mortality caused by the recent epidemic of the grip has been much increased by exposure, most of the dwellings having been destroyed.

The town of Marajan was leveled and 23 persons were killed. Several persons were killed in various small villages and several small coasters are missing. No reports have been received from some localities. Coconut trees and all crops are destroyed and food is being distributed to the sufferers. Admiral Remey has ordered the Arethusa from Cavite with food supplies. Flour, corn and meats are needed, and it is suggested that donations be sent from the United States. The Brutus, from Cavite, and the Solace, from San Francisco, due at recently, will relieve immediate needs.

Founding of the Yosemite upon the reef broke and twisted her propeller and she was abandoned and sank November 16. The flagship Newark has gone to investigate the disaster.

FOREIGN ENVOYS TO MEET.

All Have Heard From Their Governments—Conference May Futile.

Pekin, Dec. 4.—All the foreign envoys have now heard from their governments regarding the joint note to the Chinese plenipotentiaries, and a meeting will be held today. The envoys are not communicative, but enough is known with reference to the objections of different governments to make it doubtful that the meeting will have a satisfactory conclusion.

Prince Ching and Li Hung Chang both say that they are anxiously awaiting the demands of the powers. They declare that China desires peace at any price commensurate with the dignity of an independent nation, but they point out that so long as a large foreign army occupies the province of Chi Li the problem will be harder to solve.

The missionaries and others who went through the siege protest bitterly against any suggestion of leniency. They urge particularly that those who are high in office and who were really responsible for the outrages to foreigners should be executed; and they insist also that a sufficient force should be kept in China to guarantee order and to keep foreigners independent of the Chinese, declaring that if this is not done a repetition of the troubles is inevitable.

PARLIAMENT WAS OPENED

Members Search Underground Chambers, as Per Old Custom—Speaker Elected.

London, Dec. 4.—The opening of the initial session of the Fifteenth Parliament of Queen Victoria occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon. It was a formal affair and of little public interest. A small crowd assembled to see the beefeaters, who carried out the usual search for possible conspirators in the vaults beneath the Houses of Parliament, with the customary ceremonial, and with the customary result. There was likewise the usual competition of zealous members of Parliament to be first on the scene and J. O. McDona, Conservative member for the Rotherhithe division of Southwark, easily secured the choice of seats, arriving in the House at midnight.

Mr. Balfour, the Government leader in the House, and First Lord of the Treasury, and Mr. Chamberlain, the Secretary of State for the Colonies, arrived promptly at 2 o'clock and were cordially welcomed. Sir William Vernon Harcourt and Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the Liberal leader in the House, were similarly greeted from the opposition benches.

General Sir Michael Biddulph, the gentleman usher of the Black Rod, appeared a few minutes later and summoned the members to the Upper House to hear the reading of the Queen's commission directing the election of a Speaker. There was no opposition to the re-election of William Court Gully for a third term.

But few people attended the opening of the House of Lords. The body was in session but a few minutes.

EX-CADET BOOZ DIED.

Superintendent Mills Denied He Was a Victim of Hazing.

Philadelphia, Dec. 4.—Oscar L. Booz, the former cadet at West Point military academy, who had been lying at the point of death at his home in Bristol, Pa., suffering from injuries which his parents claim were the result of hazing at the academy over a year ago, died in agony. The cause of death was said to be throat consumption.

West Point, Dec. 4.—Superintendent Mills denies the story of the hazing of Booz.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Wheat was fairly active and firm on bullish statistics, higher cables and a reduction in the estimated Argentine surplus, anuary closing 1/4c higher. May corn closed 1/4c up and May oats 1/4c improved. Provisions at the close were but little changed from Saturday.

AFRAID OF BEING KISSED.

Clever Story of a Man, a Maid and an Iron Kettle.

Here is an ingenious Circassian story: A man was walking along one road and a woman along another. The roads finally united, and the man and the woman, reaching the junction at the same time, went on from there together. The man was carrying a large iron kettle on his back. In one hand he held by the leg a live chicken, in the other a cane, and he was leading a goat. Just as they were coming to a deep, dark ravine the woman said to the man:

"I am afraid to go through that dark ravine with you. It is a lonely place, and you might overpower me and kiss me by force."

"If you are afraid of that," said the man, "you shouldn't have walked with me at all. How can I possibly overcome you and kiss you by force when I have this great iron kettle on my back, a cane in one hand and a live chicken in the other and am leading a goat? I might as well be tied hand and foot."

"Yes," replied the woman, "but if you should stick your cane in the ground and tie the goat to it and turn the kettle bottom side up and put the chicken under it, then you might wickedly kiss me in spite of my resistance."

"Success to thy ingenuity, O woman!" said the man to himself. "I should never have thought of this expedient." And when they came to the ravine he stuck his cane into the ground and tied the goat to it, gave the chicken to the woman, saying, "Hold it while I cut some grass for the goat," and then, lowering the kettle from his shoulders, he wickedly kissed the woman, as she was afraid he would.—Stray Stories.

THE UNTOLD.

Why Mrs. Cavil Failed to Be Informed by Her Husband.

"I didn't tell you, did I, Mildred," said Mr. Cavil to his wife, "that I saw your sister Jane down town this day week?"

"No, you didn't, Charles Augustus Cavil," replied Mrs. Cavil. "Why didn't you?"

"Well, you see"—

"Yes, I see. You meet the only sister I have in the world, and instead of coming straight home and telling me about it the same day, as any respectable husband would have done, you keep the matter secret a whole week and then ask carelessly if you have mentioned the fact that you saw her."

"But, my dear"—

"Don't but me, Charles Augustus Cavil. I have no doubt that she sent me a message by you, and you not only failed to deliver it, but by this time you have forgotten what it was about. Tell me if this isn't the case."

"My dear, it was this way"—

"Don't tell me it was that way, Charles Augustus Cavil. I know exactly how it was. You simply didn't care a straw whether I knew that you had seen Sister Jane or not or you would not have waited a whole week to tell me you had seen her."

"But I didn't say I saw her," Mr. Cavil said at length.

"Then I'd like to know what you did say, Charles Augustus Cavil."

"I asked you if I told you that I saw her," explained Mr. Cavil.

"Well, why didn't you tell me?"

"The reason I didn't tell you was because I didn't see her; that's all."

Mrs. Cavil gasped and was speechless.—Boston Bazar.

A Trick of Indian Thieves.

In some of the thieves' schools in India a regular course of training is gone through in the art of "pouching," or concealing articles of value in the throat. The Englishman, a newspaper published in Calcutta, thus describes the process:

"At first a small piece of lead, attached to a thread, is swallowed and guided by the action of the tongue to the orifice of the sac in the throat. As soon as this has been thoroughly learned the lead is coated with lime. This eats into the sac and enlarges it. The size of the article to be pouches is gradually increased until it is said that many of the Indian thieves can pouch 8 or 10 rupees at once."—Toronto Mail and Empire.

FIVE PEOPLE KILLED.

Boiler In Railroad Power House Exploded.

SEVERAL OF INJURED MAY DIE.

Thirteen People Were Hurt—The Accident Occurred In a Structure Belonging to the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad Company, in Chicago.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Four men and one boy were instantly killed and 13 people injured by the explosion of a boiler in the power house of the Chicago and Northwestern road. Several of the injured are hurt so badly that they will die.

The dead: August Claman, section foreman, killed by falling debris.

Unidentified man, about 40 years of age, blown through roof of building and fearfully mangled.

Unidentified man, about 20 years of age, blown through roof of building; one leg torn off and otherwise mangled.

Unidentified man, name supposed to be Schriener, covered with falling debris.

Unidentified boy, 12 years of age, killed by flying bricks and debris.

Among the injured were: John Butterworth, chief electrician of power house; skull fractured, internal injuries; will probably die.

Anthony Krause, badly scalded, chest crushed, both elbows dislocated; will probably die.

Mrs. Augbeck, Milwaukee, thrown against seat; internally injured; may die.

Michael McGregor, severely burned.

FLAG ON THE TOMBS

Four Companies of the Kaiser's Troops Reported to Be in Danger—Relief Hurrying to Them—Punitive Expeditions Are Doing No Good.

Berlin, Dec. 4.—A dispatch from Field Marshal von Waldersee, sent from Peking December 1, says that, after hoisting the German flag at the Ming tombs and punishing several neighboring villages for the murder of Christians, the late Colonel York's detachment, commanded by General Gayl, returned to Peking in four columns. The Kalgan expedition, the dispatch says, was very successful. Several thousand Chinese regulars, under the command of two Generals, were driven in wild flight from the province of Chihli to Shansi.

Tien-Tsin, Dec. 3.—Four companies of German troops are reported to be seriously menaced 35 miles west of Pao-Ting-Fu. Eight companies of French troops, with three days' rations, have left to go to their relief.

It is by the imperative order of the Czar that the Russians are handing over the Shan-Hai-Kwan railroad to the Germans. The necessary documents were signed this morning.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 3.—Kwan-Chang, an attaché of the Chinese legation here, in a formal interview to-day, said: "It is futile for Field Marshal Waldersee to send into the interior expeditions the presence of which only irritates the natives and increases their animosity toward the Europeans. The Emperor will not return to Peking as long as foreign troops, beyond the legation guards, are there. Should it be necessary the Emperor will fly farther than Sian-Fu."

INTRODUCED TO THE PRINCE

Canadian Troops Spent Another Pleasant Day in London—Soldiers Inspected.

London, Dec. 4.—The returning members of the Royal Canadian Regiment and the Composite Regiment of the Household Cavalry were inspected this afternoon by the Prince of Wales at the Albany street barracks. The Princess of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of York, the Duke of Cambridge, Field Marshal Lord Wolsey, General Sir Evelyn Wood, the Adjutant General to the forces and the Secretary of State for War, William St. John Broderick, were among those present and participating in the inspection.

The Canadian officers were introduced to the Prince of Wales, who, in a brief speech, heartily welcomed them to England. He said it had been great satisfaction to him to hear how gallantly they had fought and he mourned with them the loss of so many of their brave comrades. The Prince also said he remembered with the greatest pleasure his visit to Canada.

A Woman Released.

Cleveland, Dec. 4.—Mrs. Grace Robinson, arrested here Saturday charged with being a fugitive from justice at Libby, Mont., was released on a telegram from the sheriff of Flathead county, Montana. It was alleged that she had aken $50,000 worth of bonds belonging to her husband and fled.

House of Delegates Organized.

San Juan De Porto Rico, Dec. 4.—The recently-elected House of Delegates met at 2:30 this afternoon, 31 delegates being present. No action was taken beyond the work of organizing the chamber and electing the Speaker and other officers.

A DAY IN WALL STREET.

President's Utterances as to Trusts Had Some Effect on the Steel and Iron Stocks.

New York, Dec. 4.—Speculative activity continued rather depressed in stocks Tuesday. The president's message was made a device by professional traders to effect some movement in the steel stocks. That is to say, alarmist rumors were current before his appearance on the stand taken on the "trust" question. The stocks proven vulnerable to the bear attack, and the decline brought out considerable offerings of long stock, effecting a decline at one time in Tennessee Coal of 4 1/4 and in Steel and Wire of 3 1/4. These were the weakest stocks and they rallied on short covering 1 1/4 and 1 1/2 respectively. On the other hand, Sugar was fairly buoyant, rising at one time 3 1/4 and closing with a net gain of 2 1/4. In the outside market also Standard Oil sold at $10, leaving all previous records far behind it. The upward rush of over six points in Pacific Mail was made at the opening and was prompted by the general concurrence in the views reported from the party leaders in Washington as to the prominent place given by the ship subsidy bill in the party program for the session. There was quite a large short interest caused in the stock, which emphasized the rise. The same was true of Sugar, which recovered its Saturday loss with the approach of the dividend meeting. The dividend meeting, however, was postponed from Monday and the stock became quiet. The railroad list was extremely irregular. Baltimore and Ohio suffered sharply on account of the legal proceedings to enjoin the payment of the dividend on the common stock, pending the decision of the rights of the preferred stock to share equally with the common stock in dividends over 4 per cent. There were also conspicuous stocks in the railroad list which gained sharply, including Pennsylvania as the leader. The fact that neither the gains nor the losses persisted showed the professional character of the dealings. Notwithstanding the reduced activity there was a sharp hardening in the call money rate to 6 per cent late in the day, at which figure it required a million dollars to meet the needs of belated borrowers, who had held out for better terms.

WIDE OPERATIONS OF ARMY.

Secretary Root in His Report Covered Them.

Washington, Dec. 4.—The annual report of Secretary Root is of more than usual interest, owing to its wide scope and the fact that it treats of subjects of such importance as the Philippine insurrection, the Chinese campaign, the developments in Cuba and Porto Rico, and finally with the subject of army reorganization. Some idea of what the army has been doing in the field and at home is conveyed by the secretary's statement that its operations included the prosecution of the war for the apprehension of the Philippine insurrection, and the establishment of a government in the Philippines; the rescue of the foreign ministers in Peking; the preservation of the relief of distress in Alaska, and the construction of roads and telegraphs there; the conduct of the government of Porto Rico, until May 1 last; the conduct of the government of Cuba; prosecution of river and harbor works; the construction of sea coast fortifications; the barrisoning and maintaining of military posts and fortifications; the discharge of about one-third of the army and the re-enlistment of soldiers to take their place, and the distribution of supplies to the scattered forces.

Secretary Root said the military requirements in the Philippines may be summed up as follows:

For the immediate future about 60,000 men. This number may be progressively decreased by the gradual disappearance of all insurrection and by the substitution of native troops, costing less than half to support.

Stockholm, Dec. 4.—The health of King Oscar continues to improve.

Three More Rioters Sentenced.

Akron, O., Dec. 4.—Judge Kohler sentenced three more of the convicted rioters, John Roden and Richard Hullett being sent to the penitentiary for one year each, and Claude Bender to the workhouse for 30 days. William DeWitt was convicted of participating in the riot, making the tenth conviction.

Her Mind Easy.

"I hear you are going to Australia with your husband, Kitty," said the mistress. "Aren't you nervous about the long voyage?"

"Well, ma'am," said Kitty calmly. "That's his lookout. I belong to him now, and if anything happens to me it'll be his loss, not mine."—Exchange.

In Grandma's Day.

Women were straight and strong. They could walk or work side by side with the men of the family. They lived under healthier conditions; there was more simplicity and less strain. To-day it's different. The woman has all the care of the house and the wear of motherhood with duties superadded which were never dreamed of in Grandma's day. As a natural result she's worn out when she ought to be in the full beauty of mature womanhood. Women who would preserve their health and strength should guard the delicate womanly organs. When these are diseased the whole body suffers loss of strength and beauty. Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the diseases that weaken women. Inflammation, ulceration and female weakness promptly yield to the power of this great remedy.

"I had been a great sufferer from female weakness for about two years," writes Mrs. Emma Richardson, of Goss, Wayne Co., Ky. "Could not do my work part of the time. I took four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and felt as well as I ever did."

A Dogfight in Church.
The Westminster Budget says that it was once usual for highland shepherds to take their dogs to church and leave them outside the pews. Two shepherds at enmity sat on opposite sides of the aisle one Sunday. Soon after the sermon began the dogs, one a collie and the other not, seemed to enter into their masters' quarrel. One tender of the flock and then the other egged on his animal, and each faithful dog obeyed his master. The people at last craned their necks over the pews, and when the dogs actually fought not a few of the congregation were standing up.

The minister's patience was ultimately exhausted, and so he called to his "hearers" and said, "Ah, well, my britherin, I see ye are more interested in the dogfight than in my sermon, and so I'll close the buike—and I'll bet half a crown on the collie!"

THE GALLUP FAMILY.

AN EVENING OF LAMENTATIONS BY THE AILING WIFE.

She Knew Her Time For Departure For the Other World Had Come, and She Was Anxious to Become an Angel, but There Were Drawbacks.

[Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.]

Mr. Gallup had finished his supper, removed his coat and shoes and sat down in the rocking chair to read the copy of The Chemung County Gazette he had brought home from the post-office when Mrs. Gallup dropped down on the lounge with a sigh and began:

"Samuel, if you could spare a dyin woman three or four minits of your time I should like to talk to you. I know you don't like to be bothered when you are readin, and I wouldn't say a word if it was only a bile on my leg or one of my back aches, but it's more serious than that, Samuel—fur more serious."

Mr. Gallup stretched his legs out to their fullest extent and made his toes crack, but he never looked up from his paper.

"I don't want to give you no sudden shock," continued Mrs. Gallup as the tears began to stream down her cheeks and her nose to twitch, "but it's my duty to tell you, so you kin prepare yourself. Samuel, you'll be a widow before Saturday night! Tonight is Tuesday night. Before sundown on Saturday night the funeral will be over, I'll be an angel, and you'll be free to go out somewhere every evenin and play checkers. Do you hear me, Samuel?"

Mr. Gallup may or may not have heard her, but if he did he paid not the slightest attention.

"Yes; I've got my call to go," she resumed as she wiped her eyes on her apron. "I've had rheumatiz, fever, consumption and heart disease, and many and many a time I've expected to go, but I have never felt like this before. My heart goes tunk, tunk, tunk, my lungs seem to be hitchin around, and now and then my breath shuts off on me the same as if I had got caught in a hole in the fence. Mrs. Watkins was took this very way before she died, and so was Mr. Comfort. It may come tonight, or it may be delayed till tomorrow, but within a day or two I'll be an angel. You won't blame me fur dyin, will you, Samuel?"

"SPARE A DYIN WOMAN THREE OR FOUR MINITS."

Mr. Gallup turned his paper over, pulled in his feet and crossed his legs, but made no reply.

"Folks can't help dyin, Samuel—that is, I can't. I hate to go before I've made the soft soap and put up the tall pickles, but I can't help myself. It was so with Mrs. Watkins. She had the soap grease all ready and was all ready to dye rags fur a new carpet, but when Gabriel's horn sounded she had to spread her wings. You'll miss the soft soap, Samuel, fur you're a great hand to wash up, and you'll miss the pickles, fur you love sour things, but will you miss me?"

Mr. Gallup held the paper in his left hand and reached down his right to scratch his heel through his sock, but he was dumb. Mrs. Gallup looked at him through her tears for a time and then choked down a sob and said:

"Well, if you don't miss me I can't help it. I've allus had hot water ready when you wanted to wash your feet, and you've never found me without stickin salve fur sore fingers. I've nursed you through colic and sot up with you through fever. You've never had to tell me my bread was heavy or the biscuit tasted of saleratus. And when I'm laid away, Samuel, you'll remember that I wore the same bonnet and shawl fur 21 years and that I allus made a pair of shoes last three years. Haven't I done purty well all things considered?"

Mr. Gallup might have agreed with her, but if he did he didn't say so aloud. He crossed his legs the other way and scratched the other heel, and when Mrs. Gallup could restrain her tears she observed:

"I ain't leavin this house the way

some wives would, Samuel. When I am gone, you'll find your shirts and socks and everything in the usual place, and you won't have to sew on a button. I'll even scald out the teapot and scour out the dishpan if I have time. If angels can look down from heaven, then I want to look down and see that I've left everything in order. I want to ask you about angels, Samuel. Are they all old or young angels, or are they sorter mixed up? Will I be set back 20 or 40 years, or will I be an old woman angel?"

She looked directly at Mr. Gallup and waited for a reply, but he was reading how to make a hammock out of a flour barrel, and he paid no heed to the question.

"And are all angels purty, Samuel?" she continued after awhile. "I've never been purty since I was a baby and fell out of the window, but if I've got to be an angel I want my face made over as soon as I get up there. I'm not goin to be p'inted out fur my homeliness as I fly around. If I was, I know I'd make up faces at some of 'em. Will I be changed in the twinklin of an eye and made as purty as the rest of 'em?"

Something like a smile flitted over the face of Mr. Gallup, but it was probably caused by the article he was reading.

"And about the music, Samuel? I can't play on no harp without lessons. I have never even seen a harp. When we was first married, I used to play on the accordin fur you, but it was awful poor playin, and you soon got sick of it. Is it goin to be expected that I kin fly right up to heaven and begin playin on a harp the very first thing? If it is, then I dunno as I want to die. I never could a-bear havin folks laugh at me. And the singin, Samuel—the singin! My voice is cracked, and I sing through my nose, and is that goin to do up there? I s'pose I could walk around with a robe on and talk and visit, but I can't sing nor play, and they needn't expect it. Samuel, shall we talk about whether you'd better take a second wife or not? Sometimes I think you had, and sometimes I think you hadn't. What do you think?"

Mr. Gallup turned from the hammock article to one on natural gas in Ohio, and he extended his legs again and prepared to digest it thoroughly. It might have occurred to him that Mrs. Gallup was in the room and that she or some one else was talking to him, but he answered not. Ten minutes had gone by when he finished the article and looked up and around as if he had suddenly missed something. Mrs. Gallup lay curled up on the lounge fast asleep, and in the corner of each eye still glistened a big tear.
